Earthquake In Alaska Wrecks Anchorage

Death Toll May Be In Hundreds; Buildings Fall

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The heart of this metropolitan city was virtually destroyed by an earthquake that rocked Alaska Friday night, leaving a death toll that might reach several hundred.

The quake struck here at 5:36 p. m. — 10:36 p. m. EST — at the height of the rush hour. Hundreds of people were caught on the streets or en route home in cars.

Huge cracks opened in the ground. Two in the downtown area were from 6 to 12 feet deep and ranged from 6 to 50 feet wide.

In the center of the city, three-story concrete buildings—many of them quite new — tumbled or caved in upon themselves. Some were reported a total loss.

Gov. William A. Egan asked President Johnson to declare portions of Alaska a disaster area.

"Urgently request designation major disaster area," Egan wired the President. "Complete evaluation of damage and loss of life not yet available, but information presently at hand confirms likelihood of damage which could easily reach minimum of quarter billion dollars through widespread area."

City In Darkness

Anchorage stands at the head of Cook Inlet and as the shock and tidal waves rolled down the sound, they brought death and destruction to coastal cities.

Three persons were reported dead and 26 missing at Valdez.

Three deaths were confirmed at Seward, where 20 persons were reported missing.

Anchorage was plunged into darkness when electric power went off, and rescuers struggled in the ruins with only emergency lights to guide them. A fire broke out but was extinguished.

Regular communications with other cities were not established until more than 8½ hours after the earthquake hit.

Damage was reported extensive in other cities. Oil tanks erupted. Fires broke out and firefighters were hampered by the lack of water.

Kodiak was swamped by a 17-foot tidal wave and the mayor sent out a call for help. The Navy had evacuated its station before the wave struck, and most of the residents also had moved to higher ground.

Homes Tumble

A section of Turnagain Bluff, where many of Anchorage's finest homes are located high above Cook Inlet, reportedly crumbled and many homes tumbled down the cliff.

President Johnson was alerted to the disaster at his Johnson City, Tex., home, where he is spending the Easter vacation. Reports were given him periodically throughout the night.

Disaster agencies around the country were informed and the Red Cross designated Seattle as its marshalling point. Navy and Army planes in the Seattle area were on the alert, ready to carry life-giving supplies to the stricken area.

The earthquake was recorded on the University of Washington seismograph for two hours. It's intensity was measured at 8.3 on the Richter Scale. The San Francisco Earthquake of 1906, which claimed 452 lives, registered 8.25 on the same scale.

The university's seismologist said the earthquake apparently centered in the bay south of Seward, 1,500 miles northwest of Seattle.

Waves Hit Coast

Shock waves were felt around the world. The recording needle was shaken out of the seismograph at an observatory in Paris.

Damage and disaster spread southward. One child drowned and three others were reported missing when waves swept over a Depoe Bay, Ore., beach.

Tidal waves crashed over the Washington coast, knocking out bridges and prompting the evacuation of several areas.

A series of tidal waves hit the Hawaiian islands and boats were tossed violently by freakish tides at Houston, Tex. Water surged up the Vancouver Inlet to flood the downtown section of Port Alberni, B.C., to a depth of five feet.

The first contact with the outside world was made from this earthquake - stricken city more than 8½ hours after the initial shock wave.

Radio station KENI reached the Seattle office of the Associated Press at 7 a.m. EST to report that the death toll has not been ascertained, but damage is extensive. The report said several houses and buildings fell into fissures and one downtown building caved inward.

Village Wiped Out

The city was, at that time, still in darkness with only a few emergency lights burning.

The Coast Guard at Juneau reported the tidal wave traveled 100 miles in 25 minutes.

Waves 10 to 15 feet high washed into Seward where flooding appeared to have caused most of the damage.

An unidentifeied fishing vessel radioed that the village of Tuguyak on the southern tip of Kodiak Island was wiped out by a tidal wave and that a boat was picking up survivors.

Adak, in the Aleutian Island chain, reported no damage there.

Aftershocks and recurring tidal waves, as the waters coursed in and out, kept terror alive through the cold night. Temperatures at Anchorage were about six degrees below freezing when the quake struck.

The missing at Valdez disappeared when the dock upon which they were standing collapsed. Two longshoremen were reported killed at Valdez, 150 miles due east of Anchorage on Prince William Sound.

Oil tanks split open at Seward and burned through the night.

Jet Fuel Is Menace

At Anchorage, a million gallons of jet fuel spilled over the international airport and residents were cautioned to stay away from the area. The 60-foot control tower collapsed and thousands of feet of runway were torn up.

Pot Shots Taken At Conservation Staff By House

By BOB VOGES
Associated Press Writer

LANSING (AP)—Members of the House declared an open season on the Conservation Department Friday, sniping at the state's outdoor agency from all directions.

The department came within a whisker of losing its control of the deer herd during the debate on two bills to set the starting date of the deer season.

Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, offered an amendment to one of the deer season bills which would have shorn the Conservation Commission of it's discretionary power over the deer herd.

This would have prevented the department from permitting special seasons for the shooting of does or allowing deer harvests where the whitetails are damaging orchards or farm crops.

"Time For Shakeup"

The amendment first passed almost unnoticed, but on a reconsideration was voted down by a tight 48-45 vote.

"It's about time we shook the conservation department up," said Rep. Carroll Newton, R-Delton, in arguing for the Jacobetti amendment.

"Let's show them how we feel about it," agreed Rep. William Baird, D-Detroit.

"We can't designate the deer seasons every year," countered Rep. Arnell Engstrom, R-Traverse City. "Let's leave the thing alone."

Another department defender was Rep. Homer Arnett, R-Kalamazoo, who raised the point that the Conservation Department then wouldn't be able to allow special shooting to prevent orchard damage.

When the debate became acid, Rep. Joseph Gillis, D-Detroit, broke the tension by suggesting another amendment. He noted that moose, elk and caribou currently are protected against shooting.

"How about protecting elephants? he asked. "We have more elephants shot in Michigan than caribou. There was one shot in Lansing not too long ago."

Feeling Of Distrust

House members started taking pot shots at the Conservation Department early. The first bill considered was one to permit the department to set seasons for sports fishing on the Great Lakes. It was defeated 54-37.

"There is a feeling of mistrust about the Conservation Department," said Rep. Lucille McCollough, D-Dearborn, in opposition to the proposal.

"The road to ruin of public trust in the conservation Department has been paved by good intentions," agreed Rep. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood.

The snarl on setting the opening date for the deer season started with a bill, passed 82-11, allowing hunting bows to be carried in a trunk or enclosed in a case rather than requiring they be unstrung.

An amendment set the deer season opener for the western end of the Upper Peninsula at the nearest Saturday to Nov. 15.

A second bill, sponsored by Rep. Clifford Perras, R-Ndeau, called for a uniform deer opener of Nov. 15 for the entire state, including the western end of the Upper Peninsula.

The two contradictory bills both were approved and sent to the Senate.

"We'll have to have a conference on that one to straighten it out," said Perras.

Pope Carries Cross In Holy Rites Today

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church turned today to the special rites of Holy Saturday and its prayers of promise for the coming Easter dawn of Christ's resurrection.

Pope Paul VI carried an eight-foot wooden cross in a penitential Good Friday procession at the ancient Colosseum Friday night. Vatican history has no record of a Pope ever before bearing a cross in a religious procession.

In a speech Vatican experts called the strongest papal denunciation of communism in years, the Pope condemned Communist treatment of Roman Catholics as a modern-day crucifixion.

It was his most dramatic appearance in the solemn rituals of Holy Week, and 100,000 people crowded into Colosseum Square in a light rain to see him.

A moral but heavy crucifixion is still going on, the Pope declared, and Christ could ask His "modern and able persecutors" of today why they are persecuting Him.

"The body of Christ is crucified even today, morally but heavily, in many parts of the world," he said. "The church of silence is still the suffering church, the patient church and, in some places, the suffocated church."

His denunciation of Communist oppression led some observers to believe he is working to revive the church's attitude toward Marxism as it was in the reign of Pius XII.

Pope John XXIII spoke out against communism many times during his reign of less than five years. He yielded no ground in doctrinal resistance to communism, but he stressed charity and gentleness more than outright condemnation.

Pope Paul spoke after he had walked from the huge amphitheater to a spot near the pagan temple of Venus on Palatine Hill. The 66-year-old pontiff took up the rough-hewn cross halfway through the procession, in which papal participation is unusual.

The procession symbolized the Way of the Cross and included 14 stops marking episodes of Christ's road to Calvary. The first four stops were inside the Colosseum, the other 10 outside on the way up Palatine Hill.

Berlin Mayor To Be Visitor At White House

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—On an easy-going weekend at his ranch, President Johnson stepped up his pace in personal diplomacy today by scheduling White House visits in May by Berlin's mayor and in July by Italy's premier.

Mayor Willy Brandt will see the President May 18 and Premier Aldo Moro will be in Washington July 7 and 8.

Both visits will be informal. No major problems exist between the United States and either Italy or West Berlin.

Moro will be making his first trip to the United States as premier. Brandt is coming to this country primarily to address the Foreign Policy Association in New York City May 15.

The vacation White House announced the visits while Johnson was in the midst of a welcome letup from pressing duties at his 400-acre ranch in the Texas hill country.

He is seeing old friends and familiar places, including his boyhood home here.

The President and Mrs. Johnson are expected to attend Easter Sunday church services. Since Johnson has worshiped at St. Barnabas Episcopal Mission in nearby Fredericksburg on each of his two previous trips home as President, the congregation rather counts on his showing up Sunday.

Fredericksburg people were hoping the President would show up for another Easter festivity tonight—a pageant at the fair grounds and the lighting of traditional fires on the hills around this old German settlement.

Seats have been reserved for the President and Mrs. Johnson in the grandstand, just in case.

The lighting of seven huge fires on the hilltops, which climaxes the pageant, has a long history behind it.

On Easter eve in 1847, Indians fearing treachery in peace treaty negotiations built fires around the pioneer town to show up any forces that might be advancing on their encampment.

Fredericksburg mothers eased the fears of their children by telling them Easter rabbits built the fires under huge pots to boil eggs which would be dyed with colors extracted from spring flowers.

The fires have been rekindled every Easter eve since.

Rusk Clashes With Fulbright On Cuba Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk has clashed with Sen. J. W. Fulbright's views on Cuba and has made it clear that the administration disagrees with many points the Arkansas senator raised in a tempest-stirring foreign policy speech.

But, Rusk told a news conference Friday, he goes along with the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on some of the issues brought up in his Senate speech Wednesday.

Rusk said Fulbright's speech was a "thoughtful and thought-provoking" one. He called it a contribution to discussion, adding "it is important that these matters be discussed."

On this last point the two were in solid agreement, for Fulbright has said his reason for making the speech was to "stimulate consideration of our present course by all thoughtful Americans."

More Than Nuisance

As for specific disagreements expressed by Rusk, Fulbright told newsmen, "I do not want to get into an argument with the secretary."

Here's how the two differ on the Cuban situation:

CASTRO—Fulbright called the Communist regime of Fidel Castro a "distasteful nuisance but not an intolerable danger." Rusk said Castro is "more than a nuisance, he is a threat to the hemisphere."

BOYCOTT — Fulbright said U.S. efforts to persuade other non - Communist nations to go along with the economic boycott of Cuba have been a failure. He called for an end to the boycott policy. Rusk said the economic isolation of Cuba "has not been complete, but it has been very substantial" with a substantial amount of cooperation from allies. He said the boycott will continue unless Castro changes his ways.

Their views on other points:

POLICY—Fulbright said "old myths" which have guided foreign policy attitudes should give way to revised assessments "in the face of new realities." Rusk said the administration has been facing up to realities in its foreign policy. He agreed that the Communists no longer present a solid bloc.

Panama Agreement Near

PANAMA—Fulbright said the United States should take a more magnanimous position toward revising the Panama Canal Treaty. Rusk said he didn't want to get into that subject because the two nations are now very close to an agreement.

CHINA—Fulbright said Red China should neither be recognized nor admitted to the United Nations. Rusk agreed. Fulbright also suggested it might be possible to draw Communist China into existing East-West agreements in such fields as disarmament, trade and educational exchange.

Although most of the news conference centered on questions about Fulbright's speech, there was also a focus on U.S.-Soviet relations.

Rusk stressed that no strings had been attached to the release of two American fliers shot down over East Germany March 10. H said he was still puzzled about how the plane had gotten so far off its course.

Oswald Data Asked

Rusk also said he had asked the Soviet Union for more information about Lee Harvey Oswald, who was accused of assassinating President John F.

Court Leaves Districting Job To Legislature

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan's legislature—under prodding by a federal court—is expected today to move swiftly to carve out 19 new Congressional districts as nearly equal in population as practicable.

In a 2-1 decision, a federal panel ruled Friday the lawmakers must either revamp the plan they adopted last year or the state must elect its representatives on an at-large basis next November.

All three judges agreed last year's plan is unconstitutional because of wide population deviations. Population totals range from 306,000 in the smallest district (the Upper Peninsula) to 494,000 in the largest, Wayne (Detroit) County's 15th District.

District judges Talbot Smith and Stephen Roth, both Democratic appointees, signed the majority opinion ordering reapportionment in time for the election this fall.

Would Favor Democrats

Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Clifford O'Sullivan, a Republican appointee, said the legislature should be allowed greater leeway to draw up the new districts, even if this meant waiting until the 1966 elections to do so.

The ruling could result in a shift in the political balance of power now prevailing for Republicans who hold 11 of the state's 19 seats in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Most political observers believe an at-large election would favor the Democrats. Any realignment of districts on a population basis would tend to cut into the outstate strength of the GOP by assigning more congressmen to the heavily-populated Detroit area.

There were indications the decision might be appealed to the United States Supreme Court with a request for a stay of execution. A pontiac attorney who has announced his candidacy for Congress, Richard Kuhn, said he might seek a stay of execution if the decision is not appealed by any of the direct parties to the suit.

Gov. George W. Romney expressed disappointment in the court's ruling but said he will meet with legislative leaders early next week to determine a course of action.

"We will comply with whatever the courts finally rule," he said. "Fortunately, we can take advantage of much of the groundwork done a year ago when we drew the 19 districts the court has now ruled out.

"We'll do everything possible to avert an election of our 19 congressmen at large."

Graham To Stage Easter Rally In Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham arrives today to plan his Easter Sunday rally. Police took extra precautions for an estimated 50,000 expected to be in the integrated audience.

City, county and state law enforcement agencies are pooling their resources to prepare for a crowd which Police Chief Jamie Moore said "may be the biggest we have ever seen."

Moore said all city police including plainclothes detectives will be on duty.

Graham's crusade team said the Sunday service will be considered a success if the crowd reaches 30,000. Many more are expected.

Graham recently returned from Europe.

Preparations for the service have been under way for some time. A choir of 3,000 white persons and Negroes will sing.

Crusade members have recruited an integrated staff of 1,000 ushers.

Havana Students Flee To Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Forty Cuban refugees in at least four different craft, one of them a rowboat, reached Florida Friday.

Three of them identified themselves as Havana University medical students. They said that 400 armed Communist students at the university terrorized the 15,000 other students.

Salinger Runs In California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—With a champagne toast and a yell, "the campaign is on!" Pierre Salinger celebrated the California Supreme Court order declaring he is a legal candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator.

It was the last of a series of developments that started March 19 when Salinger resigned as presidential press secretary. He flew to California to declare his candidacy, established a San Francisco hotel residence, hired a battery of lawyers, campaigned all over the 700-mile-long state and mounted the Supreme Court fight.

"I'm elated," said Salinger, 38, in Los Angeles Friday when he heard the court had ruled in his favor and against the Republican secretary of state, Frank M. Jordan.

Jordan had refused Salinger's candidacy papers on the grounds that the ex-newsman had violated state election code requirements covering party affiliation and length of state residency.

Salinger, who hadn't lived in California since 1955, has been a registered voter in Virginia. Jordan, despite Salinger's sworn statement, said there was no proof Salinger was a Democrat.

Woman Run Over By Her Own Car Near Ypsilanti

By The Associated Press

A Ypsilanti woman was run over by her own car today and at least two other persons died in Michigan traffic accidents during this first weekend of spring.

Cora M. Tournier, 22, of Ypsilanti, fell under the wheels of her car after she was thrown out of the auto when another car struck it in the rear two miles east of Ypsilanti.

John F. Trappen, 21, of Portland, was killed today when his car went out of control on I 96 and struck a bridge support two miles east of Portland.

A car collided with a bus at a Detroit intersection and careened over a curb, killing pedestrian Roman Tenecelski, 72, of Detroit, Friday night.

UPCAP Program Rated Too Much Tied To Govt.

A study of Sault Ste. Marie's economic problems and their solution suggests that the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Problems, which the county boards of supervisors of the U. P. have created to help Chippewa and the rest of the area, is not a promising bet for long term aid.

The report puts more hope in the assistance that can be offered by Operation Action- U. P., organized by Presidents Edgar L. Harden of Northern Michigan University and Walker Cisler of Detroit Edison Co. It is an agency with a blue ribbon advisory board of Michigan industrialists and educators.

The Sault industrial capability study was made in 1963 by T. L. Doman Associates of Livonia, Mich., and financed by the Roberts P. and Ella B. Hudson Foundation. It uses quite a bit of frank red ink in picturing the Sault's business trouble sand potentials.

Its appraisal of the two leading economic development agencies of the Upper Peninsula comes as UPCAP is being reoriented to operate on funds other than those from the federal government, which have financed much of its activity under an Area Redevelopment Administration grant for the past year and a half.

Business Sponsored

The Doman report states:

"Today there are two groups devoted to the economic development of the Upper Peninsula. Operation Action U. P. is primarily a business-sponsored activity and UPCAP is an offshoot of the Federal ARA program. (Editor's note: UPCAP was organized and operating before it got ARA technical assistance.)

"No attempt is made here to evaluate in detail the structure of these two groups or their capabilities to achieve the objectives for which they were formed. Their functions are similar in that both are supposed to provide 'technical planning' assistance to the industrial development efforts in Upper Peninsula cities.

"Neither UPCAP or Operation Action, however, can be constructed as substitutes for sound local development programs. The area-wide responsibilities and affiliations definitely preclude introduction to or solicitation of prospects for any individual community. How these groups will handle a single inquiry, for which 15 communities are competing, is anybody's guess.

"Operation Action, however, appears to be able to offer a really useful service. The membership of this group is composed of prominent people in Michigan's business and industry. The talents and resources of these people, and the companies they represent, can be invaluable in the field of management, production, technical and financial consultation to new industries in the Upper Peninsula. There is evidence of this unstinting cooperation in recent activities of Operation Action.

"UPCAP, however, seems to be completely oriented toward more federal government participation in the development of the Upper Peninsula. The 1962 UPCAP annual report shows a multitude of meetings, appointments and resolutions to secure more federal funds for more board studies of the Upper Peninsula.

Doubts Study Need

"With the publication of the excellent 1963 Ebasco Report, it is doubtful if any net broad-area studies are needed and if they will reveal useful or previously unknown data. At best, they cannot avoid excessive duplication.

"Because of its tie-in with ARA regulations and dependence on federal funds, UPCAP does not hold promise of permanent help. Should ARA be abolished in Congress, the entire UPCAP effort could become stranded and with its low budget and part-time committee, completely ineffective.

"Too much of such non-business sponsored assistance is harmful to the Upper Peninsula. It fosters dependence on temporary federal means to solve the area's problems. It inhibits private initiative and breeds a reluctance in business and industry to provide needed assistance. It can become a crutch instead of a cure to a sick economy."

Texas Governor Able To Write

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. John Connally on Friday used his right hand to write his signature for the first time since he was wounded Nov. 22.

"His wrist is still extremely stiff but he has good movement of the hand itself," his office said.

Connally was critically wounded by the same sniper who shot and killed President John F. Kennedy while the pair sat in a motorcade with their wives in Dallas.

WLST Sponsors Radio Ragathon

Radio WLST of Escanaba in a public service project on April 4 and 11 will star Dick Drazba in radio "Ragathon" to encourage support of the "Rags to Riches" fund drive.

Proceeds from the "Rags to Riches" project sponsored by the Exchange Club and the Aqua-Nuts water ski club will go to finance dental care for underprivileged children of Delta County and to aid the day school for retarded children.

It is on the Saturdays of April 4 and 11 that people of the Delta County community are encouraged to give used clothing and rags to aid the fund campaign. Collections of clothing will be made in the city and places have been designated where used garments may be deposited in advance.

"The 'Ragathon' is going to be a contest between the people of the townships and the city," said Drazba. "Who will contribute the most to the drive? That's the question that can be answered only by giving generously to support the program.'

Drazba will be stationed at the WLST transmitter building on M-35 just south of Ford River. Outside the transmitter center a trailer will be parked, carrying an appropriate "Rags to Riches' sign. Here persons who want to support the drive may deposit rags.

"We'd like to put as many people as possible on the air during the period of the Ragathon from 1 to 3 p.m. each Saturday,' said Drazba. "All they have to do is bring a generous contribution of rags and we will be happy to have them on the air with us to help promote the worthwhile drive."

Drazba said that Ragathon music will feature a variety of "rag" recordings from "Rags to Riches" to "Poor Little Raggedy Ann."

Van Tassel Named Vice President, Business, At NMU

MARQUETTE — Promotion of Northern Michigan University Comptroller Leo Van Tassel to vice president in charge of business affairs was announced today by Dr. Edgar L. Harden, president.

Van Tassel came to Northern in 1946 as professor of business. Three years later he was appointed comptroller.

He began his career in education as a high school teacher in Fennville, Mich., and later taught in Midland and was a public accountant in Detroit before joining the NMU faculty.

A native of Howard City, Mich., he received his bachelor"s degree from Western Michigan University, and his master's degree from the University of Michigan. He took graduate work at Columbia University, the University of Omaha, and the University of Kentucky.

Political Storm Buffets Former Escanaba Mgr.

GRAND RAPIDS—Political battling among city commissioners, described by one participant as the "most vicious" in years, broke out over the "impending retirement" of City Manager George Bean and a series of proposals made by the manager.

The description of the fighting was supplied by Mayor S. E. Davis, who joined Commissioner Berarnd S. Barto in a losing effort to delay discussion of Bean's tenure until after the April 6 election.

The subject finally was scheduled for debate Monday night—behind closed doors.

Bean, who will be 65 next month, stated: "If the City Commission wants me to stay on and do some work, okay. If not, I will retire and retire happy."

One official indicated after Tuesday's meeting that Bean, up for reappointment May 1, may be urged Monday night to tender a resignation with the understanding he would be then be asked to stay on the job until early summer when next year's budget work is completed.

Squabbling first erupted when the finance committee voted 2-to-1 to reject a "rubber stamp" role and delayed approval of Bean's request to use $300,000 in capital reserve funds, much of it supposedly reserved for capital park outlays, to start replacing equipment in the city's new motor pool.

Bean said equipment has been allowed to depreciate over several years and capital spending will be needed for some time to get the pool on a "self-sustaining" basis.

WAS MANAGER HERE

George E. Bean came to Escanaba from Milwaukee in 1936. He left in 1945 and before returning to Grand Rapids as manager a few years ago he had served several large cities, including San Diego, Calif. While Bean was here the city steam plant was started, an elevated water storage tank was constructed, and the municipal dock was built.

Smelt Runs Month Away

All is quiet along Michigan's smelt-dipping front, but it won't stay that way for long, according to the Conservation Department.

In fact, if warm rains come along shortly to go with March's generally mild weather, water temperatures may be raised enough to trigger an early smelt rush in the state's Great Lakes tributaries and small inland streams.

Usually, these tasty little fish start moving up the Lower Peninsula's streams around Apr. 10. As a rule, the first major waves of smelt hit Upper Peninsula streams around May. 1. Peak runs occur between then and May 10 above the Straits.

Catch records of commercial operators point to no significant shift in the Great Lakes' smelt populations. As a result, dip-net fishermen are again expected to take slightly more than one million pounds of these fish during the coming season.

The state's heaviest smelt runs should take place in streams that empty into the northern third of Lake Michigan, including those in the Bay de Noc region of Green Bay. Streams and cuts draining into Saginaw Bay are other dependable hot spots for action. Good dipping success is also expected farther north in Lake Huron streams and in Lake Michigan tributaries along the southwestern part of the state.

Residents using standard hand nets must have regular $2 fishing licenses to take smelt upstream from the Great Lakes. Out-of-state fishermen need an annual ($5) or temporary ($4) license for dipping smelt in all Michigan waters, including the Great Lakes.

Under a special $3 license, sportsmen may catch smelt with gill nets during April and May in Great Lakes waters open to commercial fishing. Gill nets cannot be longer than 50 feet; their mesh sizes must measure between 1¼ and 1¾ inches.

Briefly Told

Escanaba police have issued traffic court tickets to Thomas J. Stone, Indiana, for speeding and drag racing and no operator's license; and to Kenneth W. Kelloniemi, 300 N. 15th St., drag racing.

Robert W. Haddock, Jr., partner and manager in the Delta Abstract Office, Escanaba, attended the meeting of the Abstract Section of the American Land Title Association April 3 at the Drake Oakbrook, Chicago. The Chicago meeting, first of its kind in the 58 year history of the Association, was devoted to management problems, and consideration of new equipment and mechanical devices.

The Escanaba Council, Knights of Columbus, will meet Monday evening at 8 in the Council Clubrooms in the Sherman Hotel Building. Final plans for the forthcoming exemplification of the three major degrees to be held on April 5 will be completed.

M-Sgt. Edward A. Ekdahl of Marquette is in Escanaba every Thursday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. to interview applicants interested in the U.S. Air Force. His office is at 716 Ludington St. Those unable to meet Sgt. Ekdahl at this time may write for a special appointment to: M-Sgt. Edward A. Ekdahl, USAF Recruiter, Room 103, Savings Bank Bldg., Marquette, Mich.

Saturday, April 11 is the date of the next nation-wide Peace Corps Placement Test, the Peace Corps has announced. It will be administered by the U. S. Civil Service Commission in Escanaba Federal Building at 8:30 a. m. All applicants must be American citizens at least 18 years old. Married couples may apply if they have no dependents under 18. A college degree is not required.

February Trade 9 Pct Over 1964

Business in Escanaba, as indicated by bank debits (checks against depositors' accounts for goods, services, debts, etc.) was better in February than in January and registered a gain of 9 per cent over February a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis reports.

The Upper Peninsula as a whole recorded a gain of 8 per cent for the month over the same month in 1963.

Marquette led in debits volume with $19.6 million, a gain of 20 per cent, and Escanaba was next with $15 million.

L'Anse, had the greatest per centage gain, 21, on its volume of $2.7 million. Manistique had a husky 11 per cent gain on its volume of $4 million and Menominee and Hermansville both showed gains, Menominee gained 5 per cent on volume of $7.1 million and Hermansville 14 per cent on volume of $755,000.

Only three communities in the U.P. showed losses, Gladstone, 6 per cent on volume of $1,855,000, Houghton, 12 per cent on volume of $5.7 million and Norway 5 per cent on $2.5 million.

Gladstone Drive For Development Nearing $10,000

The Gladstone Development Committee's total solicitations have reached $9,560. Besides the cash it has pledges which will raise the total to $9,900, which is about one third of the goal of $32,000, Mayor Frank Stupak announced today.

The solicitation is to provide sponsor share of a $160,000 project to purchase the Marble Arms plant in Gladstone from ITT-Bell & Gossett, Inc., and turn it over to two Hopkins, Minn., sporting goods manufacturing companies for lease-purchase operation.

"It is regrettable that we are forced to make this drive during a season of church-related activity and the drive has been somewhat slowed down because the people are preparing for the Easter season," said Mayor Stupak.

"However, because of the time limit set by the conditions of the sale of Marble Arms and the need to get this plant in production as soon as possible, we are forced to conduct it at this time. Also, we must have a very clear-cut picture of local willingness to participate financially in this program by April 4.

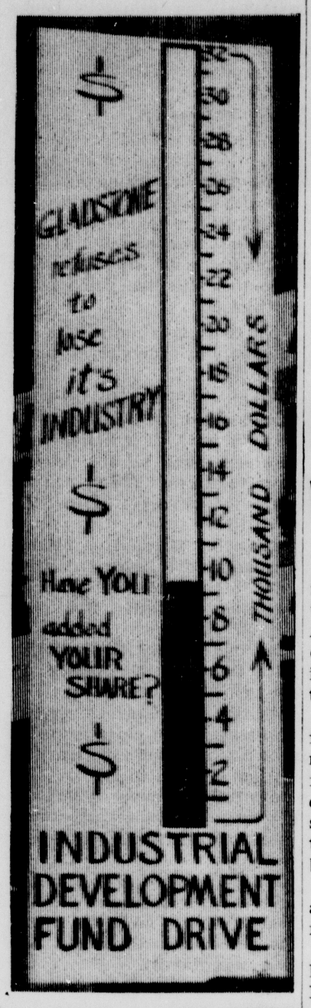

"We have been told that there are people who are willing to contribute, but are waiting for solicitors. The committee in charge hopes that such people will call a member of the Development Committee and he will gladly go to their home or they may bring their contributions to either the First National Bank or the State Bank in Gladstone.

"We are still planning to conduct our house-to-house campaign Monday and Tuesday of next week.

The community share of $32,000 will have $8,000 supplied by the purchasers, the Birchwood and Casey Chemical companies of Hopkins, manufacturers of sporting goods equipment, who plan to move their operations to Gladstone and merge them with the Marble operations.

The Small Business Administration will loan the other $128,000 needed to finance the acquisition and keep the Marble Arms plant operating in Gladstone.

Officers and directors of the Gladstone Industrial Development Corp., which is being incorporated to acquire the Marble plant and lease it to the two Hopkins corporations on a purchase contract, and volunteers working in the Gladstone Development Committee include Wallace Cameron, Michael LaPine, Keith Towns, Walter Olson, William Noreus, Reuben Sjoquist, Wynand Nieuwenkamp, James T. Jones and Mayor Stupak.

Stuffed Duck Toy Dangerous

DETROIT (AP) — Health inspectors checked hundreds of Detroit stores Friday for toy ducklings made of the skin and down of real ducklings and considered dangerous to children by health officials.

The search began after the Federal Food and Drug Administration office in Detroit advised the City Health Department of the danger involved in the lifelike toys, believed to be scattered through the state for use in Easter baskets.

City Health Commissioner Dr. George P. Anderson said the toys, imported from Japan, are actual ducklings, with real skin and down feet and bills.

He said the ducklings were killed when they were about two weeks old, skinned and stuffed with cotton waste treated with benzine hexachloride, a chemical used as a soil fumigant but also "suitable for embalming."

He said the chemical tends to seep through the skin and also gets on the outside of the birds during manufacture.

Dr. Anderson said the chemical, if ingested, causes vomiting and acts on the nervous system, causing difficulty in breathing and possible convulsions.

A child handling one of the toys could become seriously ill, Dr. Anderson said, adding it is unlikely that death would result.

Bank Purchases Hotel Menominee At Public Auction

MENOMINEE — First National Bank of Menominee Friday bought the property of the former Hotel Menominee Company for $32,000 at a public auction. The price included $7,000 for personal property and $25,000 for real estate.

The bank held a $33,750 mortgage on the property.

Hotel Menominee, a local landmark, was built in 1881 by Samuel M. Stephenson, pioneer Menominee lumberman, after whom the hotel was named. It remained the S. M. Stephenson Hotel through the early lumbering days here.

The Hotel was closed to business early in January under foreclosure proceedings to satisfy a debt of about $35,000 which included an insurance contract of $444.

Red Cross Aids With Messages

The names of 17 persons and families have been received by the Delta County Chapter, American Red Cross, in inquiries concerning their safety in Alaska, Mrs. Betty Hamilton, secretary, said today.

"The Red Cross is urging families to write air mail immediately to their relatives and friends in Alaska of they are concerned for their safety." said Mrs. Hamilton. "These letters and wires will be delivered by emergency plane."

The Red Cross here has been asked for information about the following in Alaska:

Mr. and Mrs. William Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Valentine and Mrs. Valentine's mother, Mrs. Margaret Olson.

Sgt. and Mrs. Frank Mundziak, Lt. Col. Lloyd O. Jensen and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Bayer, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Skrede and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson, Master Sgt. Donald C. Cox and family, William Longtine and Joseph Potvin.

Francis Davidson and family, Gary F. Sivertsen, Staff Sgt. Daniel Cowell, Mr. and Mrs. Allen N. Slye, Mrs. Paul Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Larson and family.

Inquiries about additional families and individuals from this area in Alaska were being received by the Red Cross as the hours pass by.

Board Rates Are Upped At NMU

MARQUETTE — Board and room rates at Northern Michigan University have been increased by $1 per week.

Beginning in September, board and room rates will go up to $21.50 per week, from $20.50 per week, according to a resolution approved by the NMP board of control.

NMU President Edgar L. Harden told the board that the increase in board and room will put Northern on a par with board and room rates of other institutions in the state.

The increase will cover increases in university wages and the telephone service which has been installed in the dormitory roms, he said.

Area Families Fear For Loved Ones In Alaska

Anxiety was expressed today by members of many families in this area for the safety of relatives and loved ones in Alaska, where violent earthquakes brought widespread destriction centering in Anchorage.

The earth shocks came at about 5:30 last night in Alaska or about 10:30 p.m. Escanaba time.

Among the former residents of this area known to be in Alaska is the former Audrey Gauthier, a registered nurse, now Mrs. George Bayer and the mother of two children.

The family lives in Anchorage and Mrs. Bayer's brother, David Gauthier of 428 S. 8th St., said he last heard from her about a month ago. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gauthier of Bark River.

Capt. Mary Jean Rademacher, U.S. Air Force Medical Corps, daughter of the Paul Rademachers of 709 3rd Ave. S., probably arrived at Elmendof AFB near Anchorage shortly before the earthquake.

She had been transferred from Forbes AFB to Elmendorf and was scheduled to fly out of Tacoma by jet Thursday which would have brought her into Elmendorf across the bay from Anchorage by Thursday night. The Rademachers have heard nothing from her since her arrival there.

Associated Press reports described Elmendorf AFB runways as partly usable today.

Mr. and Mrs. William Collins and their son, Billy and married daughter, Patricia are in Anchorage where Mr. Collins is with the Highway Department. Mrs. Collins is the former Val McClusky of Escanaba and her brother, John Roach, resides at 2304 Ludington St. Collins retired last fall from the Michigan Highway Department and because of the need for men went to Alaska. His wife and family went there in October.

Schaffer Residents

Daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Derocher of Schaffer, Mrs. Ron (Emily) Larson and Mrs. Paul (Jeanne) Campbell are with their families in Palmer, Alaska, which is about 40 miles from Anchorage. Larson is a former coach at Powers-Spalding and has been head coach at Palmer High School for the past four years. Both Mrs. Larson and Mrs. Campbell are graduates of Holy Name High School.

Danny Cowell is another area resident in Alaska. He is stationed with the US Air Force on a mountain radar site. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cowell of Days River Road and his wife, the former Ute Block of Germany, is living in Gladstone. Cowell arrived in Alaska last month and expects to be there a year.

Expected Home

Joseph A. Potvin Jr. and William Longtine, both 23, have been in Anchorage for the past two months. Potvin called his home in Schaffer Friday and told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Potvin Sr., that he would be flying home today. He is expected to arrive home tonight and the Potvins have not received word whether he was in Anchorage at the time of the quake. Longtine was to remain in Anchorage, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Longtine, Wells. The young men are both graduates of Holy Name High School.

Jerry Sundelius, 23, a former resident of Gladstone, is stationed with the Air Force near Anchorage. He has been there nearly a year. His sister, Mrs. Jerry Allsworth lives in Hyde and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sundelius now reside in Milwaukee.

Two daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Potter Sr. of Stephenson have been living in Fairbanks for about the last 18 years. They are Mrs. Kenneth (Kate) Ringstad and Mrs. Mark (Joyce) Ringstad.

Sunrise Services Mark Holy Day

By The Associated Press

Christians around the world prepared today for Easter Sunday, the most triumphant Holy Day of the year.

The penitential mourning of Good Friday, commemorating the crucifixion of Christ, will give way to the joyous refrain of "Alleluia, the Lord is Risen."

Across the United States, churches planned sunrise services to celebrate the Resurrection.

The traditional service will be held aboard the USS Constitution, "Old Ironsides," in Boston Harbor and in Red Rocks Park near Denver, where work crews had to shovel nine inches of snow from the seats.

In Alabama, worshippers will make a predawn trek to Mound State Monument for the pageant "The Road to Clavary." It will be staged on three of the largest mounds, which were built by Indians centuries ago as places of worship.

There will be sunrise services at Oklahoma's Wichita Mountain Wildlife Reservation, at Radio City Music Hall in New York City, at a placid pine-rimmed reservoir in Irvington, just north of New York, and at Alto Pass., Ill., where a 111-foot cross will be dedicated.

Construction of the cross began five years ago. It's the work of the Rev. Wayman Presely, a retired Methodist Clergyman

There also will be the traditional Easter egg hunts in many communities and the Easter parades of new, spring clothes. The forecast for New York's Fifth Avenue parade was for fair weather with temperatures in the 40s and 50s.

AIR LIFT

The men who flew the Berlin airlift in 1948-1949 are now honored by a soaring Air Bridge Monument in West Berlin. A round-the-clock aerial convoy delivered 2,325,000 tons of supplies for 2 million people cut off by a Soviet blockade in that period.

Glen Preserved At Arlington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the new from Washington:

ARLINGTON: The Army has decided to preserve Arlington National Cemetery's last undeveloped section, a wooded glen containing ancient oaks.

The trees, some more than a century old, rise behind historic Custis-Lee mansion atop the hill where President John F. Kennedy is buried.

The Army first planned to clear the glen for graves. But because of widespread opposition it will develop an area of the south post of adjacent Ft. Myer for burial sites.

FEDERAL EMPLOYES: The number of civilian workers on government pay rolls dropped in February to 2,470,393, a congressional committee reported today.

The drop of 3,153 workers marked the fourth straight monthly decline.

The figures were made public by the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Government Expenditures.

PESTICIDES: Agriculture Department regulations which go into effect May 26 will require labels on pesticides to carry such warning words as "danger," "caution" or "warning."

The department issued the new regulations Friday. They also require that the labels carry prominently the statement "keep out of reach of children" or the equivalent.

The new rules are designed to provide greater consumer protection against possible harmful chemical preparations used to combat insects and plant diseases, the department said.

In Service

Army Pvt. James L. Minor, whose wife, Irene, lives at 1226 Stephenson Ave., and other members of the 1st Infantry Division are participating in a two-week counter-insurgency field training exercise near Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. The exercise is scheduled to end March 30.

The 23-year-old soldier, a machinegunner in the battation's Company A regularly stationed at Fort Riley, Kan., entered the Army in November 1963 and completed basic training at Fort Gordon, Ga.

Before entering the Army, Minor was employed by the Champion Construction Co., Iron Mountain. His father, John N. Minor, lives in Trenary.

Alaskan Quake Is Violent Here In Well Record

Last night's great earthquake at Anchorage, Alaska, was felt in Escanaba, too on the instruments of the U. S. Geological Survey in its tests wells in this area.

The reaction in the Schemmel Well at Pine Ridge was the most violent in the memory of geologists here in that deep well, which was created in the World War I period as a test boring in search of iron deposits.

Robert Knutilla and Ted Thompson of the Escanaba office of the Geological Survey said that the level of the water in the Schemmel Well dropped more than a foot when this area felt the relay of the earth shock in Alaska.

The reaction may have been as much as three feet, the geologists, said. The exact fluctuation will await determination when they remove the graph from their recorder and process it. They wanted it to remain today so it would record the aftershocks which were continuing when the recorder was inspected in mid-morning.

The most violent reaction recorded was at the initial shock. The float at the water table in the well worked the round drum of the recorder more tha na complete revolution and the drum is a foot in circumference. It went around at least once and may have overlapped and might indicate a fluctuation of two or even three feet. A light table reading of the chart will determine the fluctuation.

The well is more than 600 feet deep and the water is up to within three feet of the ground level because of support from artesian pressures which made the well a good instrument for reporting earth tremors.

The geologists said that the other wells of the Geological Survey in the area would be examined, too, but that they regarded the Schemmel Well as the best recorder.

The more than a foot of water fluctuation today contrasts with one-tenth of a foot fluctuation in the wells in July, 1958 when the last earthquake wave created in Alaska was recorded here.

Good News

The 950 men and women who work for Harnischfeger Corp. in Escanaba gave the community a splendid Easter present, a record of safe work so perfect that it goes back to July 1, 1962 and counts up to 3 million man hours of labor without a lost-time mishap.

This is an achievement of education and cooperation which goes hand in hand with quality workmanship which President Henry Harnischfeger says has been its best salesman of Made-In-Escanaba Harnischfeger welding machines, power shovels and truck cranes.

The meeting of all Harnischfeger employes called Thursday to celebrate the safety record was told by President Harnischfeger that the backlog of orders for the firm's Escanaba products is the best in "many, many years."

★ ★ ★

"You don't see any finished machines in stock," said Harnischfeger "and in welder operations our sales are running higher than they have in the last 5 years. The acceptance of P&H products has never been better."

No businessman ever paints a picture as bright as that without including some grays. Harnischfeger said that the power shovel and truck crane business is so highly competitive that some firms in it won't survive, and that welder manufacturing is in a state of change that will bring new power sources and techniques.

The market for small U. S. made excavators abroad is about gone because of foreign competition, and here in America Harnischfeger has found it necessary to finance over 60 per cent of its backlog of orders, meaning that it's heavily in the banking business as well as in manufacturing in order to compete with the services offered by other excavator makers.

★ ★ ★

The capital goods industry is tricky, spasmodic, competitive and difficult. But Harnischfeger has made a success of it, with the aid of cooperative workers like those in Escanaba. When any community hears from a large industry and employer that its orders are the best in many years, it's cause for community rejoicing.

In this case there's the extra dividend of humane achievement in the safety record. It is an evidence of ability to cope with modern problems. A big fat one is safety in this world of machines and superhighways, of speed and power that threaten fragile man daily and make his home an area more hazardous than his place of work.

Education Costs

The high cost of education is no news to parents with a son or daughter in college, or planning to go to college.

Contrary to what they might think, however, this involves more than just generally rising prices for goods and services. To an increasing extent, it is a reflection of a fundamental change in our society—the demand for quality and complexity, both in tools and in knowledge.

Rutgers University, for example, notes a surge in its operating costs from $11.5 million in 1953 to nearly $28 million in 1963 and gives a few reasons why. A list of recently installed equipment includes:

- An electron microscope for the College of Engineering—$35,000.
- A nuclear magnetic resonance spectrometer for the School of Chemistry—$27,000.
- A bubble chamber computer for the Department of Physics—$180,000.
- A supersonic wind tunnel for the Engineering Center—$20,000; auxiliary equipment—$7,000.
- An analog computer and associated equipment —$50,000.

This is what is known as higher—and higher—education.

Finding The Way

Easter — And Tomorrow

By RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.

Those who know the meaning of darkness understand the meaning of light. Those who know the burden of slavery know excitement of freedom. Those who know the load of sin understand the joy of Easter.

We live in a time when we've tried to revive the custom of loading the guilt on someone else. The ancient habit of ceremonially conferring our guilts on a goat and sending the poor animal to its death, is contemporary.

For instance, the recent furor concerning Richard Hochhuth's play "The Deputy" underscores one facet of the moral failure of our recent history It misses its point if it blames a single individual or group.

The moral failure belonged to a whole host of people, of all religious persuasions and national allegiance. You can't easily discover one scapegoat.

Likewise, it was an easy thing for some to blame the death of Jesus upon the Jewish people. To have so easily placed the blame is to miss the fact of history; it is to ignore the common guilt, the fact of sin itself. That blurs the meaning of Easter.

Paul Tournier, Swiss physician and author, has neatly underscored this common attempt to hand on guilt. He likens it to the old game of "hunt the slipper." The players sit in a circle and each one hands the slipper until the play is suddenly halted. The person caught with the slipper drops out of the game.

So with gossip and slander and with these attempts to shift the blame. So with the characters in the Passion history who tried to put the blood of Jesus on someone else. Let no one sit and gloat. The play will be resumed—and who knows who will be caught with the burden next time?

In the light of Easter, there is no point in shifting responsibility or dwelling on morbid guilt. Easter is awareness of new possibilities. Easter is the liberating fact, the possibility of reconciliation, the call to redeem the past by positive and creative action.

It may be a good thing to air out the old rooms of history and look at the horrible wreckage of our misdeeds. To live in that sense of guilt is to avoid meeting the challenge of redemption. The trouble with too many of us is that we've decided that nothing can be done about the tensions in OUR town, the tombs in OUR neighborhood, the old habit of running from the guilts in OUR groups and the old habits of running from responsibility.

Easter 1964 underscores the power of a loving God bringing man from guilt by way of forgiveness, from forgiveness to reconciling action, and from reconciling action to a new familyhood. And now—tomorrow!

"Is My Daddy in There?"

Washington Comment

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Like actors who ignore bad reviews, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge's top political workmen are shrugging off professional judgments that their man can't win the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

Their next hard aim is on the May 15 Oregon primary, where Robert Mullen, chief of Lodge Washington headquarters, says "we are going for broke." They are already setting up shop there.

But that goal, with its prize of 18 convention delegates, is a long way off. In the spacious interval, Lodge leaders hope to build little bonfires of interest in many of the 33 states where they now claim some sort of organization.

★ ★ ★

The labor will not be easy, despite rekindled excitement over Lodge after his whopping New Hampshire write-in victory. Says a Colorado Republican leader:

"Out here most people may be inclined to think that Henry Cabot Lodge is a ski resort."

The Lodge people do not blink at such comments. They report that even professionals are writing Lodge leaders now, opening communications lines. Illinois, long marked down as "Goldwater country," is one state that has been heard from.

With the expected signal from Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, Lodge's own Massachusetts now will give him its 34 delegates and may add a bonus of a plump write-in in the state's primary April 28.

Richard Treadway, Massachusetts GOP national committeeman, is reported to have written Oregon's Gov. Mark Hatfield, saying "Lodge is our favorite son; please treat him well in Oregon."

★ ★ ★

Encamped in Oregon presumably for the duration are Paul Grindle and David Goldberg, the Boston boys who masterminded the Lodge sweep in New Hampshire.

This time their candidate is on the ballot. But the Boston boys have to woo two and a half times as many GOP voters as in New Hampshire. The cost could run to three times the $25,000 they spent in the Granite State.

On the ballot with Lodge are Sen. Barry Goldwater, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Richard Nixon, Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, and Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Lodge spokesmen argue that if they can whip this crowd, then Goldwater and Rockefeller will be dancing a meaningless minuet in the "key" California primary 17 days after Oregon.

Sources in Oregon, freshly tapped by telephone interview say Goldwater still holds a popular edge, though Rockefeller's early jump in organization has not been wiped out.

★ ★ ★

Some word is heard that Nixon, allegedly concerned over his fourth place write-in showing in New Hampshire, may allow a bigger try in Oregon. A respected eastern professional says: "Nixon can't be fourth in Oregon and keep alive."

Scranton's latest move in that state is puzzling politicians and observers anew. "Is he, or isn't he?" they ask.

He permitted his name to stay on the primary ballot. But when Pennsylvania's State Chairman Craig Truax put up the required $300 and supplied state officials with Scranton material for a state-mailed voters' pamphlet covering all candidates, Scranton disavowed Truax and pulled the material out.

The Lodge people missed the deadline for pamphlet material. But the Scranton pullout is the kind of thing that gives them heart that in Oregon they can bring off another New Hampshire.

Ten Years Ago

A mother and a daughter, Mrs. Carl Erickson and Alice May Erickson, 14, were instantly killed when a car in which they were riding crashed into a Soo Line freight train near Cooks. Four other members of the family in the car at the time were hurt, but not seriously. A snowstorm was raging at the time the tragedy occurred at the Cooks crossing.

Sister M. Gisela of St. Francis Hospital staff is leaving next month for a visit to her old home in Rheinhausen, Germany.

4-H Achievement Day winners in clothing of their own design and make, shown at the Oliver Memorial Auditorium yesterday, are Jean Campbell, Cornell; Carroll Irving, Danforth; Delores Anderson, Soo Hill; Lorraine LaMarche, Danforth; and Edith Sundquist, Pine Ridge.

Twenty Years Ago

A mother bear, denned up with three cubs about 8 miles north of Manistique, has been attracting much attention of late. Yesterday they moved out of their den, presumably because of the disturbance caused by curious visitors.

The Escanaba Rotary Club is making a strong bid to have the district convention of Rotary International held in Escanaba.

Ray Hawbaker, regional sales director for Maytag Sales and Service in Escanaba, has been elected Senior Councellor of the local unit of the United Commercial Travelers.

Thirty Years Ago

John Oliver, of 530 S. 14th St., is the first person in Escanaba to see the first robin of the season. He saw it this morning while shoveling snow in front of his house.

Leo Thibault, 7, of Rapid River, is a patient in St. Francis Hospital suffering from a peculiar mishap. He had seen older boys syphon gas with a hose and tried it. He got a mouthful of gas, swallowed it and became seriously ill.

Though prohibition is a thing of the past, it matters greatly what kind of liquor is consumed. Two Delta County men got 30 days in jail for having two flasks of moonshine on their hips when accosted by the police.

EX-COUNCILMAN'S VIEW

To the People of Escanaba:

As a citizen and a voter I feel it is my civic duty to do whatever I can for my community. I am going to do this thing in the only way I know how, by speaking for Harold C. "Pat" Hayes, who is a candidate for the City Council in the election April 6.

Ten years ago I would not have spoken for this man as I am going to do today. Why? The answer is this. Because of his recent experiences in government Pat Hayes' thinking has changed considerably and it has made him a better qualified person than he was 10 years ago. My hat is off to him.

Members of the Escanaba City Council have had enough faith in him to appoint him to the Delta County Board of Supervisors for four two-year terms. His record and accomplishments for those 8 years have been remarkable and good for our city.

★ ★ ★

Pat Hayes should be given the opportunity to continue this work as a city councilman. I served with him on the Board of Supervisors and always found him ready to save a taxdollar.

He was always fair to the county employes when they needed and were entitled to an increase in salary. I know he will try to improve working conditions of city employes.

While serving on this board he was effective in helping to make the former Pinecrest Sanatorium into a merical care facility for elderly people. He also took part in the project to build our new Delta County Court House and the new County Jail.

★ ★ ★

During my time as mayor and councilman I tried hard to promote industry, especially the iron ore industry, which I feel could be operating the year around by keeping the harbor open during the winter months as well as in the summer.

I know Pat Hayes will also try to promote industry in our community because he has the ambition and the "know how" and the courage of his own convictions. He has demonstrated this by the stand he has taken on natural gas.

I know he will try hard to bring new industries to Escanaba and to keep our present industries.

Marriage Flops; Who Gets Gifts?

Dear Ann Landers: We have searched the etiquette books and can't find the answer. The situation is so unusual, however, perhaps the answer can be found only in a psychiatrist's text book.

Miss X and Mr. Y were married in a beautiful church ceremony after months of planning. Six days later the bride returned to the home of her parents and announced that the marriage was finished. The groom is still honeymooning—by himself.

There is no chance of a reconciliation. The girl has made that clear.

What we want to know is this: Should the wedding gifts be returned? The couple also received some sizeable checks from relatives. Thank you for your guidance. — THE INQUIRERS

Dear In: Married people are not required to return wedding gifts. It matters not whether the marriage lasted five minutes or 50 years.

In our society the wedding gifts belong to the bride. If, for purely personal reasons, the bride wishes to return certain gifts which came from the groom's relatives she can do so, but it is up to her.

Consult a lawyer about the checks. In some states this could be considered community property.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a bartender in a busy little club. My wife works there, too. She is a receptionist.

Rosie loves to dance and she is good at it. It seems that whenever I look up she is on the dance floor with some gink. I've told her this looks cheap and I don't like it. She says it's good for business.

We have been married three months and can't get by without her checks so please don't tell me she ought to quit her job and stay home.

Maybe I should tell you we met at this club and Rosie used to dance with the customers before we were married. I didn't mind then, but I do now. Thanks a lot for any help you can give me.—BIG RED

Dear Red: Rosie should stick to her receptionist duties. Giving up dancing with strangers is a small thing to ask in the interests of building a good marriage.

Dear Ann Landers: I have read your column for many years and agree wholeheartedly with most of your ideas. I would like to respectfully suggest, however, that you reword one piece of advice which you frequently give.

To the husband or wife who has lived through the trials and tribulations of a triangular affair you often say: "Forgive and forget." I believe it should be, "Forgive and learn from it." It is not possible to forget, even after many years.

There is something to be gained from every experience, even though it may appear to be a total disaster. I had a bitter and heartbreaking experience which involved an unfaithful husband and a close friend. It motivated me to look forward and do some serious soul-searching. I came out of it a whole person — and a better one.

Of course I still remember, but I forgave—and I learned from it.—MRS. VA.

Dear Va: I agree that every experience can be a useful one if it teaches us something.

When I say "forget" I don't mean it literally. By "forgetting" I mean the incident should not be thrown into the teeth of the guilty person or used as a club with which to beat him over the head for the rest of his natural life.

Thank you for an excellent letter.

Bartlett Backs New K-12 Bill

LANSING (AP) — Dr. Lynn Bartlett, state superintendent of public instruction, said Friday he was "extremely pleased" at passage by the Senate of the so-called "K-12 bill" requiring a kindergarten through 12th grade in every school district.

Bartlett said he was hopeful the House also would pass the measure when it reconvenes next week.

Bartlett said there has been a trend toward fewer school districts through consolidations in the past several years. When he first took office in 1957, he noted, there were approximately 3,700 school districts. At present, he said, there are about 1,480—a reduction of more than 2,200.

The K-12 bill would tend to speed up this process if it becomes law.

"There is a greater realization of the part of the school districts that it is necessary to have a realistic high school enrollment and a broad tax base in order to justify and support a good program of education," Bartlett said.

Copper Anode Price Boosted

PORT HURON (AP) — The Mueller Brass Co. today announced a two cents a pound increase in the price of forged copper anode balls and cast copper flat tops—used for plating purposes.

R. L. Gibbs, vice president-marketing, said the price rise, superceding prices which have been in effect since May, 1961, reflect the one cent a pound basic copper price increase announced by producers last week plus one cent a pound to cover increases in the cost of fabrication over the past two years.

Wyandotte Fire Arson Possible

WYANDOTTE (AP) — State and local police began an investigation today into the possibility of arson in the $250,000 fire at a Wyandotte lumber company Thursday night.

Detective Inspector Marion Jezewski said there was "a good possibility" that the general alarm fire at the Williamson Lumber Co., was the work of an arsonist.

The blaze was the second lumber company fire in the downriver Detroit area in a week. A Dearborn lumbzr yard burned last Saturday night.

House of the Week

Take Your Choice In Design

CONTEMPORARY DESIGN: Emphasis on form rather than detail characterizes this more "modern" architectural approach: Roman brick is stacked bond, stone accents, vertical boards, horizontal windows, wide overhangs and flush front door and panels.

The most important consideration a person should give a new home, if one were forced to choose, is not the exterior but the floor plan—not what you look at, but what you live in.

But who wants to live in something he doesn't like, a house that doesn't reflect his own taste and personality?

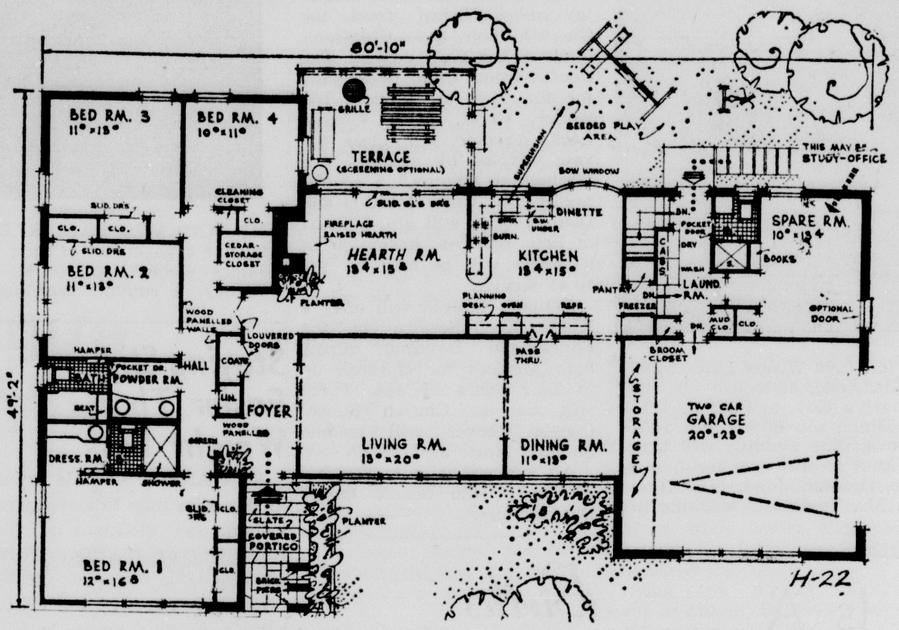

This was the problem architect Herman H. York tackled when he designed today's House of the Week. He wanted, first of all, a floor plan which answers the needs of up-to-date living: one-story arrangement with four bedrooms and a spare room, three full baths, family room, kitchen with dinette, basement, double garage, all put together for maximum convenience and privacy and ease of traffic flow for a busy family.

But what about the exterior? Should it be traditional; that is, the sort of comfortable architecture which offers refinements of proven techniques but nothing drastic? Or should it be what the architects call contemporary and the laymen call modern—a reflection of present day thinking which, at the same time, avoids avant garde experiments?

This house offers a choice of either. With the same fine floor plan, you can take your pick of traditional or contemporary facade.

The traditional offers an exterior featuring used brick, hand split shingles, double hung small paned windows, shutters and decorative panels, dove cote, arched portico, diamond paned front door and other touches which reflect the best home architecture of previous generations.

The contemporary house uses Roman brick laid in stacked bond, accents of stone, vertical boards, horizontal windows, no shutters, flush front door, wide overhangs, a post and beam appearance for the gable ends, flush accent panels, modern light fixtures — and over-all effect of length with emphasis on form rather than detail.

FLOOR PLAN: With either exterior, the room arrangement takes present day needs into consideration. The main level habitable area is 2,076 square feet not counting the 504 square foot garage and the 74 square foot covered portico.

TRADITIONAL DESIGN: For those who prefer a more consertative approach in home design this facade offers used brick, hand split shingles, small paned windows, shutters and decorative panels, arched portico and other touches which reflect the best of the past.

The laundry and mud closet are adjacent to the kitchen at the rear service entry. This also is the location of a full bath, convenient to both the housekeeping area and the backyard, to the garage workbench and the basement stairs, and also to a spare room which can be used as a guest room, den, or even an apartment for relatives.

The bedroom wing is laid out with excellent sound buffers between it and the living area.

There is an abundance of closet space in all the bedrooms, and the master bedroom has an adjoining dressing and bath alcove. The hall bathroom has a twin lavatory in a split arrangement which permits greater flexibility in use during the day

The garage doors could be located on the front of the house if lot size prohibits side entry. This plan would be less desirable, but would not interfere with the architectural design, whichever facade is selected, contemporary or traditional.

Additional Details

Whatever exterior design you choose, the interior remains the same.

In either case a covered main entry with slate floor edged with a masonry planter leads to a central foyer which funnels traffic to all areas of the house.

The foyer and all hall areas have wood panelled walls, an economical feature (because of the low maintenance) as well as an attractive one no matter what the exterior decor.

Architect York calls the family room a "hearth room" because this is the location of the fireplace. "The fireplace is intended to be used," says York, "and it will get far more use in this room than it would in the formal living room."

Adjoining the family (or "hearth") room is the kitchen which has space for a dinette in front of a cozy bow window and which offers excellent supervision of the backyard play area.

H-22 STATISTICS

A four or five bedroom one-story home with 2,076 square feet of living area over the cellar and 350 square feet over the slab for a total habitable area of 3,426 square feet. Garage and storage add 504 square feet. Covered portico is 74 square feet. Garage doors can be located in front if desired.

FORUM Annual Meet Tuesday At Iron Mountain

The annual meeting of Forum on Resources of Upper Michigan will be held Tuesday, Mar. 31, at Iron Mountain. A public meeting on current resource problems will be opened at 1.45 p. m. CST at the Dickinson Hotel, following a luncheon meeting of the membership.

FORUM is an organization of Upper Peninsula residents and organizations dedicated to the total conservation of the resources of the Upper Peninsula through wise use. The program for the public meeting will include:

A report of the activities of the Executive Committee.

A report of the Working Committee on the Lake Superior Scenic Highway.

A report of the Working Committee on National Park Service proposals.

The Celotex forest recreation development, by Lynn Sandberg (a report of the Working Committee on recreational potential of large forest ownerships.)

A report of the plan of the UPCAP project on recreation and tourism by Michigan State University.

A report of the State Geological Survey exploration for minerals in the Upper Peninsula and its economic potential by Robert Reed of the Michigan Department of Conservation.

Anyone interested in the continued conservation development of the resources of the Upper Peninsula is welcome to attend the afternoon program and to participate in the discussion on the topics.

Present officers of FORUM are: Chairman Joseph Rahilly, Newberry; Vice Chairman Hereford Garland, Houghton; Treasurer Ogden Johnson, Ishpeming; Secretary Robert H. DeRoche, Marquette.

Executive Committee members are: Carl Corneluison, Ishpeming; William Veeser, Houghton; Richard Hammerschmidt, Marquette; W. H. Treloar, Marquette; Lynn Sandberg, L'Anse; William A. Todd, Marquette; Fr. Louis Cappo, Ramsay; Jean Worth and Robert E. Schmeling, Escanaba.

An Executive Committee meeting convenes at 10 a. m. CST at the Dickinson Hotel.

State Briefs

EAST LANSING (AP)—State Police Detective Sgt. Russell Katsinger of the East Lansing Fire Marshal Division will retire April 3 after more than 26 years of service. Kitsinger, a native of Grand Rapids, joined State Police in 1937 and previously served at the Wakefield, Jackson, Jonesville, Battle Creek and Bay City posts.

IONIA (AP)—The State Highway Department has announced a 20-mile detour on M 66 will go into effect April 1 between Ionia and Stanton in Montcalm and Ionia counties. The detour is in conjunction with a $1.4 million modernization of M 66 and will be in effect all summer.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department Thursday alloted 4,030 acres of sugar beets — estimated yield 6,850 tons of sugar — to farms in east central Michigan for growing beets for sale to the Carrollton and Croswell factories of the Michigan Sugar Co.

Bay Cliff Drive Gets Underway

A special Schoolcraft project to raise funds to send Schoolcraft youngsters to Bay Cliff Health Camp is getting underway. The camp June 22 will begin its 31st year of providing therapy services to handicapped children of the Upper Peninsula.

Maintenance of 45 buildings, properly feeding children, staffing, providing all clothing, laundry, insurance, supplies and other expenses involve a large operating cost. The camp presently is financed by contributions from organizations and individuals. Each county raises the amount of money needed to support the number of children who attend from each county.

Schoolcraft has not in the past supported all the children who attended Bay Cliff each year. Last summer eight attended, with only $1079.65 contributed. This year the county has eight alloted, but this will be reduced if sufficient support is not given. The amount asked is $250 for each child, a sum less than that spent for each child. The goal in the county is $2,000. Cost of operating Bay Cliff is approximately $50,000.

Contributions may be mailed to Morris Laux, First National Bank, Manistique. Members of the committee are Mrs. Merle Wehner and Paul Larson, Rev. Engmar Levin, G. Leslie Bouschor, Dr. D. L. Waters, David Rood, H. B. Purdy and Fred Hahne.

Mrs. Nordstrom, Former Naubinway Resident Dies

Mrs. Wallace C. Nordstrom, 63, of Minneapolis, Minn., died at 10 a.m. March 26, at the University of Minnesota Hospital. She had been ill several months.

Mrs. Nordstrom was the former Naomi Besner who was born in Naubinway, Mich., in 1903, and attended local Catholic and public schools.

Surviving are her husband and two sisters, Mrs. Eldon Norton of Manistique, and Mrs. Grace Esdale of Roswell, N.M., two brothers, Fred Besner of Manistique and William Besner of Lauskin, Texas.

President Heads 4-H Service Unit

President Lyndon B. Johnson has accepted honorary chairmanship of the National 4-H Service Committee, and has consented to the presentation of silver trays in his name to six top ranking 4-H Club members next December at the 43rd National 4-H Club Congress.

The National 4-H Service Committee this year is celebrating its 40th anniversary as a non-profit educational corporation, although it began to function in 1921. Its purpose is to support and promote 4-H Club work conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service.

From a humble beginning and donations of a few thousand dollars used to bring 4-H members to the International Livestock Show, the committee has increased its support to one-and-a-quarter million dollars annually.

Services And Cantata At Calvary Church

Services will be held at the regular hours Easter Sunday at Calvary Baptist Church. The Sunday School Hour convenes at 9:45 a. m. with classes for every age. The morning worship service begins at 10:45 a. m. The choir will sing "Christ, Our Passover" and Florence Poquette will sing, "Open the Gates of the Temple." The pastor, the Rev. Donald Wolf, will speak on the subject, "Risen With Him."

The day will be climaxed with a cantata by the choir directed by Elwood Oman. The cantata being presented is entitled "Hallelujah! What a Savior," by John Peterson. It interweaves many old favorite hymns with Mr. Peterson's work. The recurring theme is Phillip Bliss' song from which the cantata receives its name. Mr. Peterson again has succeeded in bringing together a simplicity of message and a beauty in song. He has written a number of cantatas as well as hundreds of gospel songs.

Solo parts will be sung by Pastor and Mrs. Martin Strolle, Florence Poquette, Bonnie Saxe and Steve Oman. Carmen Mayra will do the narrating and the accompanist is Mrs. Donald Wolf.

An invitation is extended for any or all of the services of the day.

Fashion Notes

Jewelry goes back to nature with a difference. Paris spring collections showed less of it, leaving more natural areas exposed. What is used takes its design motifs from nature. Flowers and beetles on enameled brooches, for instance, were alluring at the Houses of Lanvin and Cardin.

Hayley Mills Is A Thrifty Young Actress

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

So, you think you'd be loaded with money if you were in show business. Big cars? Scintillating clothes? Boxes of jewels?

English actress Hayley Mills, 18, is willing to bet her allowance isn't as large as the average American student's, and she's got to stretch it quite a bit.

"Out of my $12 a week allowance, I buy lunches, dinners, makeup and records and pay bus fare and movie tabs," she says.

But she's not complaining.

"The money is invested and I can get it when I'm about 25," she explains. "I don't really think I need any more at the moment, and it's not as if I must pay for all my meals," she says.

Dad Is Actor

When she wants something special, sometimes she gets it.

"I just go to the company that manages my money and tell them what I want. If it isn't too frivolous, they'll let me go ahead and buy it.

The pixie blonde, blue-eyed actress has played in seven movies in the last six years, and is one of the best known young actresses in the world. Her mother is playwright Mary Hayley Bell and her dad is John Mills, well-known British actor with whom she has made two movies. Their latest is "The Chalk Garden" with Deborah Kerr.

"We believe that young people should be on an allowance to give them a realization of money," explains father Mills. "Mary and I started with nothing, and we had to learn the hard way. So we put our three children on allowances, and we've noticed how they appreciate little things when they learned the value of money. If we give them a little handkerchief for a present, they treasure it."

Mills is in favor of modest allowances, unless the young people are earning the money themselves. Too much of an allowance is worse than none at all, in his estimation.

No Lipstick

British young people do not need much spending money, Hayley says. They don't have as many dates as young people in the United States and they don't mature socially quite so fast.

"We don't have dates until we are about 16. But here young people go to night clubs, wear lipstick and have steady dates before that," she says.

Hayley doesn't use lipstick because it loks ridiculosis on her full mouth. "But I've got to wear mascara and eye liner because my eyes look terrible without it," she says.

Hayley's great, wide innocent eyes have been sort of a movie trade mark, wonderful in productions like "Pollyanna." But she has grown up and her eyes should look a little more dressed up in her newer roles, she says.

Hayley Mills

"It's funny, most people think I've just suddenly grown up movie-wise. But I've always played my age in the movies," she explains.

Learned About Boys

She attended a Swiss finishing school where she learned French, cooking and sewing. She thought it would be a school where she'd learn posture by walking around with books on her head all day, and learn how to get along with boys. But it wasn't that way at all.

"But I've learned the only thing that can teach you about boys is experience. They can't set rules about it," she says.

Hayley shouldn't have too much trouble corraling dates when she has time. She's very popular with boy actors. As Tommy Kirk put it a few years ago:

"Hayley has everything. She's pretty, nice and a natural born actress."

Homemaking Tips

Drying and salting of meats, as old as recorded civilization, was quite popular with the ancient Egyptians as well as to the ancient Sumarian civilization which preceded it.

Creampuffs (bought or homemade) may be served with a sauce of frozen raspberries or strawberries or one of chocolate or butterscotch. Older folk may prefer the fruit; youngsters usually enjoy the sweeter toppings.

Three Festive Services Easter At Bethany

Three festive Easter worship services will be conducted Sunday morning by the Bethany Lutheran Church in Escanaba.

A Youth Sunrise service will be held at Lakeview Chapel at 6:30 a. m. with breakfast following at the church. This service is prepared by the Immanual, Christ the King and Bethany young people.

Identical festive services will be held at the church at 9 and 10:45 a. m. with the Rev. Dr. Walfred E. Nelson preaching on the theme, "Where Fear And Joy Meet." The sanctuary has been decorated as the Easter Memorial Garden.

Special anthems of Easter joy will be heard from the Cherub Choir and Children's Choir at the 10:45 Service. The Confirmation Choir will sing for the 9 a. m. service. The Senior Choir, with Conrad Beck, director, will close the two services by singing the "Hallelujah Chorus." A special prelude by Carol Johnson and Don Aronson will also be part of both services. Reception of members will be held at the 10:45 service.

Bethany Church will offer a Kiddie Keep Service in the Educational Building during both services for children up to four years of age. There will be no Church School Classes. Classes will resume Sunday, April 5.

All are welcome to worship at one of the festive Easter Day services.

Staying Slim Easier Than Weight Loss

ANN ARBOR — It is easier to stay slim than to lose excess weight, say dietitians at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

Obesity is one of the major health problems in the United States, the food specialists say. It makes you more susceptible to some diseases and increases surgical risk if you should need an operation.

Since dieting to lose weight is usually difficult, long and often unsucessful, the food specialists offer suggestions to prevent obesity before it occurs:

— Eat a variety of foods including meats, fruits, breads and cereals, and dairy products every day.

— Include some type of physical exercise in your daily activities.

— Try recreational activities and hobbies to help avoid overeating and continuous snacking.

Dietetic foods will not necessarily help you stay slim, according to the U-M dietitians. The term "dietetic" has been applied to foods prepared for a variety of modified diets. A product may be sugar-free, salt-free, low in fat, or altered in some other way which doesn't necessarily affect its caloric content.

Faith for Our Time

And behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it. His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow: and for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men. And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here: for he is risen, as he said.

Matthew 28:1-6

The resurrection morning is a true sun-rising, the inbursting of a cloudless sky on all the righteous dead. They wake transfigured, at their Maker's call, with the fashion of their countenance altered and shining like his own.

—Horace Bushnell

One short sleep past, we wake eternally,
And death shall be no more; Death, thou shalt die.

—John Donne

Allergic People All Have Company

Are you allergic to something?

If so, you have a lot of company. About half of us are allergic to something.

Pollen in the air can start hay fever, certain foods may start hives. Possible allergens are countless — house dust, animal fur, feathers, cosmetics, bleaches, medicines, foods, pollen. Some people even are allergic to heat, cold or sunlight. And wasn't there a case some years ago of a wife who was allergic to her husband?

Most common result of allergy are four illnesses — hay fever, asthma, skin ailments and digestive disturbances. Hay fever is an inflammation of the eyes and nasal passages. Asthma is a disease of the bronchial tubes of the lungs. Food allergies, a sensitivity to one or more foods, can affect the skin, the digestive tract or the respiratory system. Skin allergies cause itching, sometimes rash.

Reaction to an allergen varies with individuals. One person may be only slightly upset by eating an egg. Another could become violently ill from the small trace of egg in salad dressing.

There still are many unknown factors about the reason why someone suddely becomes allergic to something. Allergic diseases are not usually fatal, but thy cause untold discomfort and suffering. Although worry and stress might be a contributing factor, allergy is not an imaginary illness. It is very real to the sufferer.

Sometimes the allergen is known and can be avoided. Sometimes many tests by a physician are required to arrive at the true cause. Medical care is necessary in all cases for relief of discomfort and for protection against future attacks.

If you suspect you are allergic to something, says the American Medical Association, see your doctor. Self-diagnosis and treatment is not only futile, it says, it might be dangerous

Little League Official Will Speak In U.P.

Ralph Gray

District No. 1 of Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan Little League will observe the Silver Anniversary Year Jubilee with a Convocation held in Ashland, Wis., April 22 and one in Iron Mountain April 23, it was announced today by Karl Dickson, District No. 1 Administrator.

The program is designed to better acquaint the community, parents and adult leaders with the long range benefits of the Little League movement, which in 1964 will serve a million and a quarter boys in 26 nations around the world.

Principal speaker for both convocations will be Ralph W. Gray, Northern Regional director and an executive of the headquarters' staff at Williamsport, Pa. Gray joined the staff in 1960 after a long association with the program in the Pennsylvania area. A veteran of World War II, Gray served with the United States Navy, and was commander of a P-T boat. He attended the University of Notre Dame, Harvard University and the Pennsylvania State University where he received a bachelor of arts degree. For many years after the war he headed the Host Committee for the World Series.

In a statement issued from Little League headquarters at Williamsport, Peter J. McGovern, president and chairman of the board, urged local officials, business and community leaders, educators, parents, and friends to join personnel of the various local leagues in participating in the District Jubilee Convocations. McGovern stated that the Convocations scheduled at Ashland and Iron Mountain are two of many planned during 1964 to mark 25 years of Little League in service to millions of youngsters throughout the world.

Communities represented in District No. 1 include Escanaba, White Pine, Manistique, Marquette, Munising, K. I. Sawyer Air Base, Iron Mountain (three leagues), Bessemer, Wakefield, Ironwood, Calumet, Lac Du-Flambeau, Ashland, and Superior (two leagues).

Dickson, who pioneered Little League in the Upper Peninsula in 1951, said that the Northern Region, which includes the great industrial and farm belt states of the midwest, is one of the fast growing areas of Little League activity and is considered to have rich potentials in the years ahead.

For the year 1964 there are reports of expansion in the Marquette and Iron Mountain areas and plans for a new league in Hurley, Wis. Dickson suggested that any people interested in the program in communities not now represented plan to attend one of the Convocations. For further details contact Ed Kernan in Ashland, and Gil Heard in Iron Mountain.

Black Hawks Are Confident

CHICAGO (AP)—One victory doesn't win a Stanley Cup playoff series, but the once big bad Chicago Black Hawks feel they have regained their muscle tactics.

The Hawks battered their way to a 4-1 victory over Detroit Thursday night in the opener of a best-of-seven semifinal series and the Chicagoans plan to apply the same formula against Detroit Sunday night at Chicago Stadium.

"We were going after them," said coach Billy Reay. "That's the way to stop any team. If you don't give them time to do anything, they just don't get anything done."

Reay not only was pleased with the Hawks' checking, but also called it the team's best defensive effort in a long time.

The Wings, who lost their first two games in Chicago in last year's playoffs and then won four straight, weren't crying.

"We have another shot at them here," said coach Sid Abel. "We're not going home until after Sunday night's game. This series is a long way from being over."

Assistant Gets Coaching Post

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—The new Kansas basketball coach is Ted Owens, a bright young assistant who already has a solid reputation as a soft-sell recruiter.

The 34-year-old Owens, assittant to former Coach Dick Harp the past four years, was hired Friday as head coach. Wade Stinson, the new Kansas Athletic Director, said the job wasn't offered to anyone else.

The new coach had the unanimous support of the players in a petition submitted hours after Harp's resignation Thursday.

Owens recruited most of the top Kansas players in recent years. He found 6-foot-11 Walt Wesley, a talented sophomore, and played a major part in the recruiting of George Unseld, 6-7 junior, an All-Big Eight pivot.

Giants Eye Snider As Lefty Slugger

By The Associated Press

Duke Snider apparently is the left-handed slugger the San Francisco Giants figure will bring the National League pennant back to Candlestick Park this season.

The 1962 NL champions who dropped to third place in 1963 Friday were reported to have started negotiations with the New York Mets in an effort to get Snider.

The Duke, one of the few active major leaguers with more than 400 homers to his credit and now in the twilight of his baseball career, was sold to the Mets by the Los Angeles Dodgers a year ago.

The Giants need a left-handed pinch hitter who can hit the long ball to replace the southpaw hitting of catcher Ed Bailey traded to Milwaukee during the off season. And the 37-year-old Snider still is dangerous at the plate as evidenced by his 14 homers, three triples and eight doubles for the Mets last season.

What sort of a deal the Giants offered the Mets for Snider was not known and there was no immediate reaction from the New York club.

The Duke, starting his 18th year in the majors, walloped a home run off Robin Roberts at Miami, Fla. Friday night in one of two exhibition games played on Good Friday.

The homer helped the Mets take a 2-0 lead, but they eventually lost 7-2 to Baltimore when the Orioles came up with five runs in the eighth inning. In the other game, the Houston Colts scored five runs in the first inning and beat Kansas City 6-4 at Daytona Beach.

Baltimore catcher Dick Brown led the Oriole attack with three hits—a homer, double and a two-run single in the decisive eighth-to back up hitless relief pitching by Harvey Haddix and Dick Hall over the last four innings.

Houston's quick five runs came on Eddie Kasko's lead-off homer, two walks with the bases loaded by Bob Anderson and a single by pitcher Hal Woodeshick. The game was called after eight innings because of darkness.

Bobo Scores Split Victory

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Carl Bobo Olson, just as bald as nine years ago when he was middleweight champion, could be in line for his second shot at the light-heavyweight crown.

The 35-year-oid Olson looked good in pounding out a split decision Friday night over Irish Wayne Thornton in a televised 10-round fight from Kezar Pavilion in San Francisco.

After the bout, promoter Art Benjamin talked about matching the Hawaiian-born veteran against the winner of the title fight April 10 between champion Willie Pastrano and Greg Peralta.

"I'm going all out trying to get a title fight for Olson in San Francisco," declared Benjamin.

Olson used his experience and quick combinations to defeat Thornton, the 24-year-old fifth ranked light heavy from Fresno, Calif. Thornton was stunned in the fifth, seventh and 10th by shots to the head.

Referee Vern Bybee agreed with The Associated Press in scoring it 7-3 for Olson, sixth-ranked light heavy by the World Boxing Association. Judge Jack Downey scored 6-3 and Judge Bob Mitchell had it 5-5, which surprised most of the 3,200 present and Olson, whose eyes misted when he learned he had won.

Campbell Paces Azalea Tourney

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Joe Campbell, former Purdue University golf and basketball star turned golfing executive, hasn't won a tournament in over two years.

But he feels he's on the way to better things. He carried a one stroke lead into today's second round of the $20,000 Azalea Open tournament after shooting a five-under-par 67 Friday.

"I made those six- and seven-foot putts you have to make when you are playing well," was the way he summed up his 33-34 tour of the 6,744-yard Cape Fear Country Club course. It gave him a one-stroke edge over Bob Gajda, 47-year-old Birmingham Hills, Mich., pro who is playing his way home to his club job after making the four-tournament Caribbean tour this winter.

Campbell, a chunky, cigar-smoking 28-year-old blond, is vice president of a company making a new-style grip for golf clubs. Ever the executive, he pointed out to newsmen that the grip has been a major factor in his improved play.

Joe has had his ups and downs since his selection five years ago as pro golf Rookie of the Year. In 1962 he won more than $21,000 on the tour. Last year, stopped by an appendectomy at Greensboro, N.C., he won less than half that amount.

And in nine tournaments before coming here he only pocketed about $1,500 this year. A hand injury in mid-winter forced him to lay off a few weeks. He won $600 Friday for the best score of the round, a daily bonus prize awarded by the sponsors.

With the weather ideal after a rainout Thursday, 34 players in the field of 160 broke par and 23 others equalled it.

Tigers In Same Boat As Other AL Ball Teams

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers were scheduled to play the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota, Fla., this afternoon in a game that marked the midpoint of their exhibition schedule.

The team had a day off Friday, its last—barring rain-cancelled games—until April 8, just two days before it breaks camp and heads north.

The Tigers, winners of only four of their first 13 exhibition tussles, have had little to shout about. But none of the other American League clubs is exactly a world beater either in the National League-dominated Grapefruit Circuit.

Going into Friday night's game at Miami, Baltimore, with a 5-5 record, was the only AL team playing .500 or better ball. Six of the eight National League clubs training in Florida were ahead of the Orioles in the standings.

The Tigers are 2-3 against AL competition and 2-6 against the NL teams. They have won only one of six home games.

Earlier this week manager Charlie Dressen indicated there would be a number of players cut from the roster. But he changed his mind after sending pitcher Larry Foster and outfielder Mickey Stanley to Tigertown and will hold off on any more cuts until a few more "B" games are played.

Dave Wickersham pitched three-hit ball against the Detroit "B" squad earlier this week and Dressen wants to get a few of his other pitchers to throw for the farmhands to get in shape.

Dressen will start a couple of left-handers against the White Sox in their weeekend series. Mickey Lolich was to be today's starter while Hank Aguirre will start in Lakeland Sunday.

The White Sox were to counter with Ray Herbert and John Buzhardt today and Joel Horlen and either Frank Baumann or Eddie Fisher Sunday.

Expect Larger Foreign List

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—More foreign entries in the Masters golf tournament this year show the growth of golf in other countries, says Clifford Roberts, tournament chairman.

"It also points up the growing attraction of U.S.A. tournaments to players from abroad," he added.

Roberts said a total of 28 foreign professionals and amateurs are entered this year, as compared to 17 last year.

The Masters will be held April 9-12 this year, with practice rounds beginning Sunday, April 5.

Rodman's Cage Tourney Nears Final Games

HERMANSVILLE — The original field of 31 Class B teams has been whittled to four in the 26th annual Upper Peninsula-Northeastern Wisconsin amateur basketball tournament in progress here.

Those four teams will clash in semifinal action Sunday afternoon at the Community Center gym.

Class A action begins tonight with four games starting at 7. The finals in both classes will be played Sunday night.

Tonight's schedule:

7 - Ironwood vs. Baraga

8 - Seymour vs. Oconto

9 - Champion vs. Negaunee

10 - Green Bay vs. Niagara

Tonight's winners will meet Sunday at 3 and 4.

In Sunday's Class B semi-finals, Garden will face Hermansville Joe's at 1 and Norway Towe's will meet Norway Merchants at 2.

Hockey Resumes Playoff Series

MONTREAL (AP) — Toronto and Montreal resume their civil war tonight and if Round Two of their Stanley Cup semifinal series resembles Thursday's opener, the officials will be the busiest—and dizziest—men in the Forum.

The first game, won by the Canadiens 2-0, almost turned into a mass sit-in as players from both teams skated collision courses into the penalty box. Referee Frank Udvari assessed 31 penalties, including 16 — a playoff record—in the opening period.

The penalty wave was too much for the timekeeper, who became so confused he unwittingly shortchanged Toronto while Bernie Geoffrion scored Montreal's decisive goal in the first period.

George Ogg, the penalty timekeeper, kept Dave Keon of the Maple Leafs in the penalty box after his two-minute delayed term had expired. Geoffrion scored during the mix-up. Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, acknowledged the error Friday but said the issue was dead.

In Chicago, where the Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings meet Sunday in the second contest of their semifinal set, Hawks Pilot Billy Reay credited his team's 4-1 opening-game victory to muscle.

"We were going after them," Reay said Friday. "That's the way to stop any team. If you don't give them time to do anything, they just don't get anything done."

Defenseman Al Langlois of Detroit can testify to the Hawks' added punch. Langlois is being fitted for a special mask after suffering a fractured right cheekbone, the result of a Red Hay bodycheck.

But the Wings, who lost two games to the Hawks last year before reeling off four straight victories and eliminating Chicago, are confident they will bounce back.

Spartans Win Fifth In Row

By The Associated Press

Michigan State extended its undefeated baseball string to five Friday with a doubleheader victory over Camp Lejeune, N. C.

The Spartans won the morning game 6-3 and came back to take the afternoon contest 22-1.

Meanwhile, Michigan dropped a 7-3 decision to Airona State at Phoenix, Ariz.

Michigan State will meet Massachusetts at Camp Lejeune today. Michigan closes out its western tour with a doubleheader with Arizona State at Phoenix this afternoon.

Spartan coach Danny Litwhiler used his second team to whip the Marines in the opener Friday. Pitchers John Ellward and Tom Phipps held Camp Lejeune to six hits.

The MSU regulars blitzed the Leathernecks with 24 hits in the nightcap, including homers by Dick Billings and John Biedenbach. Jerry Sutton, who drove in five runs, Dennis Ketcham, Bruce Look, Billings and Biedenbach lashed out three hits apiece.

The Sun Devils boosted their season mark to 14-2 with their 13th straight victory at the expense of Michigan. The Wolverines have lost six games in Arizona.

Doubles by Dave Campbell, Chan Simonds and Ted Sizemore, and a single by Dave Myers accounted for the Wolverine runs.

Sports In Brief

DETROIT (AP)—Two players from Michigan's NCAA championship hockey team have been named to the 1964 All-America team by college coaches. Wolverine defenseman Tom Polonic and center Gordie Wilkie were named to the team along with Michigan Tech goalie Gary Bauman, Michigan State defenseman Carl Lackey; and forwards Craig Falkman of Minnesota and John Simus of Colorado College.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bob Armstead, a 6-foot-4 senior guard, from Northern Michigan, was named Friday to the NAIA small college All-America third team. Bernard Kilpatrick of Ferris State, Dave Nelson of Central Michigan and Ed Gallup of Eastern Michigan received honorable mention.

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Michigan coach Bump Elliott announced today that he will open spring football practice Tuesday. Elliott said the annual intrasquad game will be held May 2 in the Michigan Stadium.

HOUGHTON (AP)—Michigan Tech wrestling coach Allan E. Holmes has resigned to become assistant football and wrestling coach at his Alma mater, Moorhead, Minn., State. He will leave in June.

Home Gym Edge Could Extend Court Playoffs

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Royals hope they can run Philadelphia out of the National Basketball Association playoffs before the Royals run out of healthy ball players.

But the 76ers, beset by injuries through the regular NBA season and trailing 2-1 in their best-ofe-five-games Eastern Division semifinal set with Cincinnati, may have a manpower edge as well as the home court advantage in tonight's fourth game.

In the Western Division semifinals, the St. Louis Hawks hold a 2-1 margin over Los Angeles but must also battle the home floor hex tonight when they visit the Lakers. The home team has won each of the first six games in the two series.

Cincinnati needs a victory over the 76ers to advance to the Eastern finals against the Boston Celtics. The Royals also need a few day's rest to get their bandage brigade, which includes starters Oscar Robertson and Jerry Lucas and reserve Bud Olsen, back in working order.

Robertson, who bruised his right forearm, and Lucas, who suffered a back injury during Tuesday's defeat at Philadelphia both played the following night when the Royals won 101-89. Both are with the team today. But, whereas Robertson is expected to play, Lucas' status is doubtful. The rookie star was in for only eight minutes in Wednesday's victory.

Olsen, victim of a sprained ankle, did not make the trip.

St. Louis had a chance to finish off Los Angeles Wednesday but a blocked Hawks' shot and Elgin Baylor's last-second basket gave the Lakers a 107-105 decision and kept their hopes alive.

If both series go the full five games, the decisive contests will be played at Cincinnati Sunday and at St. Louis Monday.

Al Langlois Is Ready To Play

CHICAGO (AP)—Defenseman Al Langlois of the Detroit Red Wings will play Sunday against the Chicago Black Hawks in the second game of the best-of-seven game National Hockey League playoffs.

Langlois was slammed into the window glass of Chicago Stadium in the opening minutes of play Thursday night when Detroit dropped a 4-1 decision to Chicago.

Langlois completed the game, but was treated for a fractured cheekbone. He will wear a facial mask Sunday night.

Jay Hook Has Mound Problem

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Pitcher Jay Hook of the New York Mets has mastered the theory of propelling a rocket millions of miles but he still has not mastered the technique of propelling a baseball 60 feet.

In his manner, Manager Casey Stengel puts it this way:

"His pitches just don't go where his mind wants them to go."

In his manner, Hook says:

"It's my lack of positive concentration."

Whichever is more accurate, the undeniable fact is that Hook, a 27-year-old right-hander with all the talent needed to win in the majors, has a record of 29-61 for seven seasons. In two seasons with the Mets, Hook has posted 8-19 and 4-14 records.

An erudite student of gas dynamics and rocket propulsion who is working on a masters degree at Northwestern, Hook speaks frankly of his problem.

"I've been guilty of two things," said Hook, "inconsistency and negative thinking. I have to work on positive concentration.

"Suppose," he continued, "I'm pitching to a batter who hit a low outside pitch out of the park on me the last time. I can't say to myself I won't put the ball there again. That's negative thinking. I've got to concentrate on getting it low and away if that's where I want it.

"That's the mental part of it," he added. "The actual pitching of the ball breaks down into getting good stuff on the pitch, then getting the pitch to the right spot. You should be able to do both. I've been caught trying to be too careful. That doesn't help either."

Records Tumble As Swim Stars Continue Meet

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Fabulous Roy Saari, a top American Olympic prospect, is a solid favorite to win the grueling 1650-yard freestyle tonight and score the only triple in the NCAA swimming and diving championships.

The sandy-haired 19-year-old from Southern California has won back-to-back gold medals in the 500-yard freestyle and 200-yard individual in NCAA record times. If he doesn't win the closing event in the three-day meet, it'll be a major upset.

America's leading college swimmers and divers have put on an exciting display of power the past two days. They've broken nine NCAA records and lowered two national standards so far. They show no sign of softening their assault on the record book.

The 190-pound Saari, making his first NCAA appearance, is the chief record-wrecker, but hardly anybody is surprised. He holds the National AAU indoor titles in the 500-yard freestyle, the 400-yard individual medley and the 1650-yard grind.

Saari's spectacular showings, including swimming the anchor leg on the Trojans' championship 400-yard medley relay team have eclipsed the rest of the field but there are other standouts.

These include Steve Clark, the speediest swimmer in Yale history; Indiana's graceful diver, Rick Gilbert, and butterfly ace, Fred Schmidt; Princeton's Jed Graef, three-time Eastern and present NCAA backstroke champion; Saari's teammate, sophomore Bill Craig, breaststroke, and Minnesota's Walt Richardson.

Clark and Gilbert are aiming for second gold medals in their specialties in tonight's seven-event program. Preliminaries start at 1 p.m. EST.

Favored Indiana led for the team title with 60 points, two more than Yale. Southern California, the defending champion, was third with 55. The Hoosiers were expected to pick up at least 10 points in the three-meter dive where their nearest challengers face a shutout.

Mental Retardation Tops All Children's Handicaps

By American Medical Assn.

"In terms of magnitude mental retardation is the most handicapping of all childhood disorders," says Dr. George Tarjan, superintendent and medical director of the Pacific State Hospital, Pomona, Calif., and vice chairman of the President's Panel on Mental Retardation.

Adds Dr. Julius B. Richmond, head of the Department of Pediatrics at the Upstate Medical Center, Syracuse, N. Y.: "There are approximately 5.5 million mentally retarded children and adults in America, children and 126,000 babies are born each year who will be retarded.

Many Not Diagnosed

"But these are only the recognized cases. It is speculated that there is probably a much larger number who are not functioning well intellectually, but who have not been identified as retarded for one reason or another."

There is well-nigh unanimous agreement that the task of overwhelming mental retardation, in the opinion of experts, entails all branches of medicine working in alliance with federal, state, local and voluntary agencies; and bulwarked by nationwide construction and expansion of care facilities.

Bricks and mortar money is actually available in matching funds made available by the last session of Congress. And, the American Medical Association has called together experts in all phases of the problem to seek ways of speeding up the nationwide medical mobilization against retardation.

Why The Delay?

The apparent suddenness of these events may well raise the question: "What have we been waiting for?"

As a matter of fact, we've had to wait for a whole lot of developments, according to Dr. Richmond, chairman of the forthcoming AMA conference, and Dr. Tarjan, special consultant to the conference, set for April 9-11, 1964, in Chicago.

First of all, they pointed out, retardation had to come out of hiding. It has literally taken centuries to dispel the general motion that a retarded youngster somehow represents a shameful stigma — a subject to be whispered about to the accompaniment of sad headshakings. Many such misconceptions were swept away by the high priority placed on combating mental retardation by the late President Kennedy, and the action of Congress in approving $355 million for the fight.

Another factor that has prevented an all-out attack is the subtlety of mental retardation.

"Strictly speaking, it is not a disease or a diagnosis but a functional disorder," explained Dr. Richmond. As such retardation is definable only in terms of intellectual levels of functioning. This, in turn, makes rigid standards impossible. In general, however, the degree of retardation is measured in terms of "I. Q." and a score less than 70 is usually considered a sign of retardation.

Further compounding the picture is the fact that it's not always possible to determine the exact cause of the disorder.

"Generally speaking, some children are born retarded, others acquire it after birth due to environmental factors," Dr. Richmond continued. "Part of the complexity of coming to grips with mental retardation is to try to define how much stems from birth and how much from the environment.

During recent years, strides against retardation have been rapid. Often in the past it was difficult to even recognize retardation until a child was well into school. Then "doing something" was all but futile.

Now the detection of some forms of retardation can start before a child is a year old.

Perhaps even more significant than the growing ability to help the retarded is the growing belief that most cases of retardation need never have happened. In theory, at least, about half of the cases of mental retardation are preventable.

"The overall aim of our April conference," said Dr. Richmond, "is to design ways of placing available diagnostic tools in the hands of all practicing physicians.

Community Project

"The fight against mental retardation is more and more becoming a community endeavor," said Dr. Richmond. The gist of today's medical opinion is that care of the retarded belongs within the community.

Dr. Tarjan, head of one of the larger mental retardation institutions in the country, said "retardation is largely a community problem right now, although it's not always recognized.

"Only four per cent of our 5.5 million mentally retarded are in institutions. There are no facilities for the other 96 per cent, including those who have grown from retarded children into retarded adults. Being outside an institution, these people are inevitably part of a community. And, their problems necessarily become a community problem."

It may even turn out that the needs will diminish under an intensive community program. In many cases, treatment can start earlier and with the prospects of better success. But above all, there may be less actual retardation for this is a disorder highly susceptible to prevention.

To understand why, it is necessary to understand the causes of retardation.

"There are about 200 known specific causes of retardation," said Dr. Tarjan. "Sometimes a single factor is involved, sometimes a combination of factors. Basically, however, all fall within two general categories — those arising from biological factors, such as disease and accident, and those stemming from deviant psycho-social development."

Causes Listed

The biological causes that can be identified, he said, account for about 20 to 25 per cent of the mental retardation in this country. Major ones listed by Dr. Tarjan are Mongolism, prematurity and congenital malformations of the brain. Other causes are phenylketonuria (PKU), congenital syphilis, measles, poisoning — in particular lead poisoning — and RH or other blood group incompatibilities.

Except for Mongolism, a chromosomal disorder that may go back to the moment of conception, these diseases are treatable or preventable, he pointed out.

PKU — an inborn deficiency which prevents the body from neutralizing certain poisonous substances and which leads to brain damage — can be controlled by simple changes in diet; and RH incompatibilities by replacement blood transfusion.

As for measles, while this disease usually has no permanent effect on the brain, it can occasionally lead to severe involvement, producing gross retardation. With new vaccines, however, measles is largely preventable. So is congenital syphilis — another disease which attacks the brain — either by treating the mother before she gives birth, or what may be better, wedding out the roots of syphilis in this country through educational and public health measures.

Pre-Natal Care Aids

As for the others, prematurity can often be prevented by proper pre-natal care; and the danger of lead poisoning — usually the result of a child eating plaster or paint chips— could be largely eliminated with a little household maintenance.

When it comes to lack of emotional development — the source of 75 to 80 per cent of the mental retardation in this country — the line of attack is not so clear cut as with biological causes. Disease elements are usually tangible, specific. Not so the elements of human nature, and in the case of mental retardation this means the nature of the parents.

"We know," said Dr. Tarjan, "that most cases of retardation have something to do with the early experiences of children. It particularly seems to have to do with the child's learning — the early transmission of information from parents to child."

Explains Dr. Richmond: "The brain of a child doesn't just develop, it has to be stimulated into developing. In the homes of many retarded children we don't find this stimulation — this vital transmission of information."

Paramount in the early stimulation of a child is talk — the cooing and prattle that most mothers seem almost instinctively to lavish upon their babies.

Language Factor

"Vocabulary and the linking of words," says Dr. Tarjan, "are tools of learning. If these tools aren't developed, the child can't develop."

In effect, the youngsters becomes walled off from the world about him. Interest, curiosity, emotion and intellect — the very forces that help make man what he is — are given no chance to develop in such a child. In a word, he is retarded.

"It is theorized," continued Dr. Tarjan, "that the more complex the early input, the greater the baby's curiosity, interest and imagination, and the greater the eventual output by the child."

"Of course, it's also possible to over-coddle the child. Roots of the causes, whether biological or mental, become entwined in other factors — in particular social and economic factors.

The pressures of subsistence, worry and the resultant problems can help spawn mental retardation in many ways. They can divert parental interest away from the child instead of toward him. They can contribute to sub-standard housing — to cracked and peeling walls that invite lead poisoning. They can lead to a reluctance to seek out important pre-natal care for the expectant mother and pediatric care for the newborn child.

But whatever the roots, social, economic or parental lapses; whatever the causes, emotional or physical, this point remains: Retardation, like cancer, can often be reversed if detected early enough, and like polio can often be prevented with forethought.

Romney To Join In Discussion Of School Dropouts

FLINT (AP) — Gov. George W. Romney will speak here April 3 at the statewide Community Action Conference on the school dropout problem.

The conference, which opens April 2, has two purposes: (1) help community and school leaders throughout the state equip their communities to deal most effectively with the problem, and (2) initiate a program for statewide action.

The Greater Michigan Foundation is sponsoring the conference.

Harding Mott, executive vice president of the Mott Foundation, estimated 250 will attend. Charles S. Mott, president of the foundation, will be one of the speakers.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Downtown merchants complained recently that a police sound truck which directs motorists to parking places was operated by a man with a "growling" voice.

The Retail Trade Bureau of the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce asked whether "someone with a more delicate voice" could operate the sound system.

"I KNOW it was the last word in luxury and elegance when I sold it to you, but that was three months ago!"

Achievement Day At Rapid River

RAPID RIVER—Rapid River's 4-H Club will hold its local achievement show Thursday, April 2. The program will begin at 8 p. m. in the multipurpose room of the Bay de Noc Elementary School. The club's members will model their 4-H garments for their parents and friends. Refreshments will be served. Mrs. Benjamin Viau and Mrs. Robert Martin, 4-H leaders, are in charge of the program. The public is welcome.

Former Residents Here

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Aaberg and family, former Rapid River residents, are visiting at the Charles Bowen home during the Easter holiday. Bob Aaberg served as forester at the Rapid River Ranger Station for two years. He was promoted to assistant forest ranger at Ely, Minn., in July, 1961 and the family now resides there. The Aabergs have four children, Susan, Robert Jr., Douglas and Everett.

Richard Griswald, former ranger at the Rapid River Ranger Station stopped at the station Wednesday afternoon. Griswald is still with the forest service working out of the Milwaukee office, where he is connected with the Federal Forest's recreation program. Griswald said that he and his wife, Marian, and three children are planning a camping trip to the Upper Peninsula this summer.

Rock

Wedding Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cavicchioni of Iron Mountain were honored at a wedding reception at the Rock Bible Chapel Wednesday evening, March 25. The newlyweds were married at Iron Mountain March 6. The bride is the former Helen Helenius of Rock. They both work at the Veterans Hospital in Iron Mountain. Buffet style lunch was served by the ladies of the Chapel.

Mr. and Mrs. Roman Gill and son Chris are visiting in Pulaski and Kenosha, Wis., over Easter vacation. Mrs. Gill and Chris will remain in Kenosha longer while Mrs. Byran Dowse has foot surgery Tuesday.

Mrs. John Small of Rock, Mrs. Kenneth Hill and Miss Eleanore Head of Gwinn motored to Detroit for a visit.

WANT AD RATES

MINIMUM 20 WORDS

1 day — CASH RATE $1.20
3 days — CASH RATE $2.80
6 days — CASH RATE $4.60

Want ads must be in by 10:00 a.m. daily (9:30 a.m. on Saturday) on the day of publication.

For best results, write your WANT AD naturally and clearly. Low word rates permit a complete description at small cost.

Place ad for six times. Cancel when you get results. You will be charged only for the number of times run at the current word rate.

TABLE SHOWING WANT AD COSTS 20 WORDS and OVER

Words	1 tm	3 tms	6 tms
20	1.20	2.80	4.60
21	1.26	2.94	4.83
22	1.32	3.08	5.06
23	1.38	3.22	5.29
24	1.44	3.36	5.52
25	1.50	3.50	5.75

Groups of figures count as one word. Each initial is considered the same as one word. For example:

Dial ST 6-1234 — Two words
325 S. 10th — Three words
A. Smith & Co. — Four words

2. In Memoriam

Lewis

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Anna Lewis, who passed away one year ago, March 29, 1963.

We can not bring the old days back—
Your hands we cannot touch.
But we shall never lose sweet memories,
Of the one we loved so much.

Top Teen Farmer Rents 250 Acres For Steers, Hogs

EAST LANSING (AP(—Michigan's top teen farmer of the year operates a man-size beef and swine feeding operation in Lenawee County, renting 250 acres with the idea of eventually owning a big spread for himself.

Named 1964 Teen Farmer Wednesday night by the Future Farmers of America was Paul Vergote Jr., 18, of Blissfield.

He was named on the basis of his ambitious farm program along with his outstanding activitites in his local Future Farmers chapter.

Vergote said he currently is feeding 105 beef steers and 100 market hogs on his rented property. He also raises grain as feed.

Stubborn Skunk Loses By Tail

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A lady skunk lost her battle with the humane society Thursday.

The skunk crawled between walls of the Weyerhauser Co. Wednesday and kept the wood products company employes at bay with frequent broadsides.

After an elaborate trap failed to dislodge the animal, Jim Loggins, field superintendent of the humane society, held his nose and grabbed, pulling her out by the tail.

She let Loggins have full spray of her displeasure.

He took her to society headquarters for disposition, then changed clothes.

SOUTH SIDE residents can utilize postal services at the South Side Market, where facilities were established today. Pictured are Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. South Side Gets Mailing Station

A contract post office station for the mailing convenience of persons residing on Escanaba's south side was opened today at the South Side Market, 14th St. at 8th Ave.

Postmaster James Pryal said the contract is with Louis C. Howard, proprietor of the South Side Market, who submitted the low bid for supplying the service. There were two bids received, the postmaster reported: Howard bid $1,200 for operating the facility, and John Pearson bid $2,600.

All of the services available at the window of the Post Office in Escanaba's business section will be available at the South Side Market, which has been designated as Escanaba Station No. 2.

Station No. 1 serves the North Side area, is operated by Ellen Back at 1101 Sheridan Road and was established many years ago.

The South Side station was established because of the many requests from Post Office patrons of the area, said Postmaster Pryal. It is located midway between the southwest outskirts of the city and the downtown Post Office building.

Howard was sworn in as Station No. 2 manager today by Postmaster Pryal. The first customer was Walter Arntzen of Escanaba.

Boy, 9, Attempts Tavern Holdup With Revolver

ELIZABETH N.J. (AP) — "I wasn't scared at the time but I began to get scared when I thought about it."

Bartender Patrick Vahey, 36, referred to a 9-year-old boy wielding a .32-caliber revolver who tried to hold him up at a tavern Friday night.

Vahey said he was alone in the tavern when the boy entered aimed the gun at him and said, "Don't move, mister, don't move."

Vahey said, "I rushed around the bar and when I got about 10 feet from him he started to back off. I caught him at the door and took the gun away. I tried to hold on to him while I telephoned police but he wriggled away."

Later police took in tow the boy and a 9-year-old accomplice they said had waited outside the door of the tavern as lookout. They were turned over to their parents but will face action by the Juvenile Aid Bureau.

Soviet Satellite Burns Up Over Canadian Coast

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo (AP)—A Soviet satellite burned up between the Great Lakes and the northeastern Canadian coast Thursday night, according to calculations of a North American Air Defense Command agency.

A spokesman for the space detection and tracking system of NORAD said Friday it is 'entirely possible" that fragments of Cosmos 23 fell in middle Ontario, northern Quebec and the Atlantic Ocean.

The satellite was launched Dec. 13.

Rusk Clashes With Fulbright On Cuba Policy

Kennedy last Nov. 22. The Soviet government already has provided some information on Oswald for the Warren Commission investigating the assassination. Oswald lived in Russia for more than two years and married a Russian girl.

The secretary of state wasn't the only one in the capital expressing views on Fulbright's speech.

The Nationalist Chinese ambassador, Tingu F. Tsiang, said he was shocked by the suggestion that Red China might be included in some East-West agreements.

Many of the points raised by Fulbright received the backing of Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican on Fulbright's committee. As for Cuba, he said, "I've never known a country to be starved into democracy."

The Republican national chairman, William E. Miller said that if the speech was not a trial balloon for the administration, President Johnson should renounce it. Fulbright and Rusk had said it was not a trial balloon.

Court Leaves Districting Job To Legislature

Hare, in charge of elections, said lawmakers must come up with their new plan by April 20 if the at-large election is to be avoided. Even then the Aug. 4 primary election probably will be set back a month, he said.

Sen. Farrell Roberts, a Pontiac Republican, wired members of the Senate Judiciary committee to meet at 11 a.m. Monday "to take a look at the decision and try to determine how fast we can move."

Roberts, who previously had announced he was running for Congress from the new 19th district, said he was withdrawing his candidacy.

"As chairman of the judiciary committee, I don't think I can be a candidate and reapportion at the same time," he explained.

In their majority opinion Judges Smith and Roth set no specific guidelines but told the lawmakers they should be guided by a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision in a Georgia case (Wesberry vs. Sanders).

Quoting from the Wesberry finding, the two judges said the guideline is that the legislature may not "draw the lines of congressional districts in such a way as to give some voters a greater voice in choosing a Congressman than others."

Jurist Opposes Haste

In his dissenting opinion, Judge O'Sullivan said his fellow jurists were evidencing undue haste to place heavy burdens on the lawmakers.

"In my view," he said, "the command they place upon the legislature of Michigan and the election officials of Michigan is needlessly and dangerously precipitate."

O'Sullivan said new definitions and new guidelines have put the federal courts into a position of unprecedented power over state legislatures.

Because of its population growth, Michigan's congressional delegation was increased in 1962 by one representative—to 19. But, since neither the 1961 nor the 1962 legislative sessions agreed on a redistricting plan, the 19th congressman was elected at-large two years ago.

Friday's court decision was the climax to a lengthy battle waged against both the old congressional apportionment system and the one adopted in 1963. The system was challenged by two political science professors at Henry Ford Community college, Donald Calkins and Karl Jacobs.

The professors contended both apportionment plans violated their constitutional rights to "equal protection of the laws."

Pastor Preaches For 50 Easters

GEORGETOWN, Ohio (AP)—The Rev. William Frey has been pastor of the same Lutheran Church for half a century and Sunday he will preach his 50th Easter sermon.

The man who first met the Rev. Mr. Frey when he came to Peace Lutheran Church at nearby Arnheim in 1914 said he will be in the congregation to hear the sermon.

George Wright, owner of a general store, said he has heard all 49 previous Easter messages "and hopes to hear many more."

Crewmen Control Navy Ship Blaze

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Crewmen have controlled a fire in a hold of the Navy supply ship Antares off the North Carolina coast.

The Navy reported there were no injuries to the 200 officers and enlisted men of the 455-foot craft and that seven.

The fire broke out Friday while the ship was about 48 miles off Oregon Inlet, N.C.

Gulf Coast Hit By Tidal Wave

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A freakish, 5-to-6-foot tidal wave rolled westward along the Louisiana and Texas coasts Friday night, tossing boats about and startling those who saw it.

No deaths or serious injuries were reported. Property damage did not appear to be heavy.

"It was one of the wildest scenes I've seen in a long time," said night watchman O. C. Buxton at the New Orleans Industrial Canal.

The wave, triggered by a minor earth movement, started around 10 p.m. The New Orleans Weather Bureau said it could have been connected with the Alaskan earthquake "in a coincidential sort of way."

The wave varied in size as it rolled up canals, rivers and bayous but was described by the Coast Guard as being five to six feet in height.

Some roads were covered by fast rising waters and small boats were smashed against docks.

The earth movement—something rare in this area—was detected by the seismograph at Spring Hill College in Mobile, Ala.

The Rev. Louis J. Eisele at the college said "a wide area in this section actually moved about 5-16ths of an inch."

Plane On Fire Over Pacific

SAN DIEGO, (AP) — The Coast Guard said today a Honolulu-to-Los Angeles passenger flight with nine persons aboard reported an engine on fire 1,000 miles southwest of San Francisco.

The Coast Guard in San Diego said two long-rane planes from San Francisco were en route to intercept the distressed DC-4.

The report was received at 6:05 a.m. PST that the plane was in trouble, but it did not say the plane was ditching, the Coast Guard said.

The Coast Guard said the plane was closer to San Francisco than Los Angeles and might attempt to reach San Francisco.

Coast Guard headquarters at San Francisco said the distressed DC4 aircraft, with its No. 2 engine afire, had "requested a ditching heading," which means the pilot was considering landing the distressed plane at sea.

Crops Wiped Out In Fiji Islands By 5-Day Storm

SUVA, Fiji Islands (AP) — Fiji began recovering today after a five-day onslaught of tropical storms that devastated much of the main island of Viti Levu.

Damage is estimated at more than $1.2 million. Three deaths were reported, two by drowning and one by electrocution.

Eighty per cent of the banana crop was wiped out, and there was extensive damage to the sugar industry.

Floods have abated over most of the island and most of the 2,000 residents evacuated when three rivers overflowed their banks have returned to their homes. Gifts of money, clothing and food poured into the islands from the United States, the United Kingdom and New Zealand.

Casinos Closed In Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Police Chief John Ermey has told owners of the illegal multi-million-dollar gambling operations at Hot Springs to close after tonight's action.

Ermey's announcement came Friday night, several hours after Gov. Orval E. Faubus warned that of the city did not close the casinos, state troopers would be sent in to do the job.

The U.S. Department of Justice launched an investigation of gambling in this mountain city resort city several weeks ago. Investigators said the city harbored the biggest illegal operation in the nation.

Faubus' action came one day after the Arkansas House adopted 91-3 a resolution condemning the gambling and calling on Garland County—Hot Springs—officials to shut down their biggest industry.

The resolution was not binding, but Faubus took it as a mandate for action.

Ermey personally notified the casino operators to cease operations after tonight.

Four Crewmen, 2 Boys Killed In Bomber Crash

JACKSONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — An Air Force B47 bomber crashed in a cascade of flame shortly after takeoff Friday, killing four crewmen and two children.

The boys were playing when the huge plane slammed into the ground less than 50 yards from the home of one of the victims, Richard Butler, 9. The second child, Gary Davenport, 10 died this morning.

The Butler boy was apparently killed by fire which spurted from the plane, and the Davenport boy was critically burned.

The Air Force identified the crewmen as:

Lt. Col. R.W. Hurdis, 43, of Providence, R.I. the pilot.

1st Lt. L.V. Christian, 27, of Dallas, Tex., copilot.

1st Lt. M.B. Keller, 24, ofe Atlanta, Ga., navigator.

Lt. Col. L.M. Dykes, 43, of St. Petersburg, Fla., a passenger.

One of the crew ejected from the low-flying plane. His body fell in the back yard of a home across the road from the Butler house.

Death Toll May Be In Hundreds

carrying doctors and nurses from Fairbanks managed to land at Merrill Field in Anchorage and there were reprts portions of the Elmendorf Air Force Base field near the city were usable.

Gov. Egan held an emergency meeting with his cabinet in Juneau. A planned flight from Juneau to Anchorage had to be called off when the field in the capitol city as closed by bad weather.

Early reports placed the dead at between 50 and 300 in Anchorage, but radio station KENI said it appeared the death toll might be much less.

Ralph Jones, city manager of Kodiak, telephoned Egan that the downtown area of that city had been demolished. Tidal waves were still rolling in, and Jones said the casualty figure could go as high as 50.

Death - dealing shock waves from the Alaskan earthquake smashed harbor facilities and touched off explosions and fires along the Pacific Coast from Canada to California Friday night and early today.

The surge caused flooding in the mid-Pacific Hawaiian islands and was noted even in distant Japan.

At Depoe Bay, Ore., a wave rolled over a Tacoma, Wash., family sleeping on the shore at Beverly Beach State Park. One child drowned and three others were missing.

Five Drowned

At Crescent City, Calif., at least five persons were drowned and the entire downtown business area was ravished when tidal waves washed up a nearby creek and then rolled back down through the community of 3,000 on the northern California coast.

Del Norte county sheriff's deputies said five bodies were recovered and it was feared several other persons were washed out to sea. No identifications were immediately available.

Five storage tanks at the Texaco Co. bulk gasoline plant exploded and flames later spread to the Union 76 bulk plant, a garage and a body and fender shop.

Port Town Damaged

A series of six waves washed onto the shores of all major islands in Hawaii. The only flooding occurred on Maui Island, 100 miles southeast of Honolulu, and civil defense officials said that was minor. A wave swept into two small Maui towns and spread two to three inches of water over flat areas.

After hours of tension, the all-clear signal sounded for the islands at 1:40 a.m. Hawaii time —6:40 a.m. EST.

Wave waters heavily damaged the Vancouver Island community of Port Alberni. The wave surged 40 miles through the inlet known as the Alberni Canal and poured into the Canadian pulp and logging center "like a dam had burst," a radio station reported. The town's main hotel suffered water damage in its lobby, kitchen and dining areas.

Tidal surges 10 feet high rolled up onto California's Santa Catalina Island, 20 miles off the coast at Los Angeles, and caused minor damage.

Anchorage, Alaska, the largest city in the largest state in the Union, is located at the head of Cook's Inlet, a long bay on the south shore of the state.

The city has a population of 48,000, about one-fifth of the state's total.

More than 500 air miles to the southeast is the capital, Juneau. About 250 miles to the north is Fairbanks, which has the northernmost airport on the continent.

Elmendorf Air Force Base is located at Anchorage.

Alaska's principal income is from fisheries, minerals, timber and furs. It is a state of mountain ranges and frozen tundra. The tallest peak in North America is in Alaska—Mt. McKinley, 20,300 feet high.

About one quarter of the state is within the Arctic Circle.

An organized territory since 1912, Alaska was voted into the Union on June 30, 1958. The United States bought the land from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000.

The last major earthquake before Alaska's was one that took about 80 lives in the Kashmir Valley, near Sriniger, Kashmir, last Sept. 2.

Six weeks previously, the earthquake at Skopje, Yugoslavia, killed more than 2,000 persons and injured 2,000.

The San Francisco earthquake of 1906, the only other major one in the United States, took 452 lives.

The major quakes of the 20th Century and the reported dead:

Messina, Italy, 1908, 75,000.

Avezzano, Italy, 1915, 29,970.

Kansu, China, 1920, 180,000.

Tokyo, Japan, 1923, 143,000.

Kansu, China, 1932, 70,000.

Quetta, Chile, 1939, 60,000.

Erzingan, Turkey, 1939, 23,000.

Agadir, Northwestern Iran, 1962, 10,000.

The worst recorded earthquake was in China in 1556. It killed 830,000 persons.

GRANT WYKHUIS, assistant parks supervisor at Roscommon, has been promoted to regional supervisor, Parks and Recreation Division, State Conservation Department, Marquette, effective April 5, according to Glenn Gregg, regional manager. He served in the Navy from 1941 to 1944, and is a graduate of Hope College and the University of Michigan with a B. S. degree in forestry. He is married and the father of two children.

Ice Too Thick For Woodrush In Portage Lake

CHASSELL (AP) — Ice two feet thick blocked efforts by the Coast Guard icebreaker Woodrush to take a shortcut through the Portage Canal across the Keweenaw Peninsula on a trip to Munising on Lake Superior Friday.

The Woodrush, traveling from Duluth, Minn., to help fishing boats get out onto Lake Superior from Munising harbor, moved as far as Portage Lake in the Portage Canal.

Cmdr. John Bruce said, however, the cutter progressed only eight miles in nine hours through the lake's 20-to-26-inch ice. It retraced its route through the canal and went around the peninsula through open Lake Superior water.

The Woodrush was due at Munising today. Bruce said the cutter will attack the ice in Portage Lake from the east on its return from Munising.

Detroit Gunmen Take Car And $18

DETROIT (AP) — A gunman jumped into the car of a motorist who had stopped for a traffic light, robbed him of $18 and forced him to drive the gunman and two companions 30 miles Friday night, the motorist told police.

Gerald Joeton, 21, of Detroit, told police he was released unharmed in Pontiac Township and the three men, who got in on Detroit's east side, drove off with his car.
